PRESIDENT CALLS CHIEFS AGAIN TO MAP NEW SAVINGS

Mills and Senate G. O. P. Heads at Conference.

AIM TO REBUILD ECONOMY BILL

Democrats Not Present, but Hoover Wants Nonpartisan Drive.

(Associated Press.)

In a second dramatic evening conference, President Hoover last night again pressed upon Republican members of the Senate appropriations committee the need for speed in the taxes-economy program.

With Secretary Mills at his elbow, Mr. Hoover went over the national fiscal situation. He directed particular emphasis to the economy proposals now in the hands of the Senate appropriations committee.

Mr. Mills was the spokesman of the meeting. He said:

"We discussed the best methods of assuring cooperation in putting through the economy program and the revenue bill. The effort has got to be to maintain all-around cooperation."

Both Saturday night's surprise conference, attended by members of the finance committee, and last night's included only Republicans. Mr. Hoover first wants a clear understanding with the Republican chieftains. He is emphasizing, however, an attack upon the fiscal problem on nonpartisan lines.

$237,000,000 Savings Needed.

If the compromise revenue bill agreed to by the Senate finance committee is to make the 1933 Government budget balance, there must be savings of $237,050,000 in economies, Mr. Mills said last night.

The President is known to have been desirous of speeding through the omnibus economy measure just riddled by the House before the Senate passes to the revenue bill. It was his first thought that the Senate should see how much money it has to raise before acting on the tax legislation.

However, Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, said last night the original program for taking up the tax bill first would probably be adhered to. The President has left procedure in the hands of the Senate. He simply wants to emphasize the need of cooperation and speed.

Eight members of the appropriations committee went to the White House session, headed by the veteran chairman, Jones, of Washington. Others included Hale, of Maine; Oddie, Nevada; Keyes, New Hampshire; Steiwer, Oregon; Dale, Vermont; Dickinson, of Iowa, and Davis, of Pennsylvania.

Favors Original Program.

Secretary Mills said the discussion did not get down to details on either the tax or economy bills. Of course, he said, the President was still desirous of the original program on economy which was embodied to a great extent in the bill introduced in the House, but subsequently mutilated on the floor.

This legislation was attached as a "rider" to the legislative appropria-

REVOLUTION IN PERU QUELLED BY 4 SHOTS

Sailor-Reds Take Over Two Cruisers, but Surrender Under Submarine Fire.

Lima, Peru, May 8 (A.P.).—Sailor Communists engaged in a spectacular revolution with the only two cruisers in the Peruvian navy today, but four shots from a submarine were all that was necessary to bring down the red flag and run up the white.

The whole revolution occurred in the port of Callao, near Lima, and the residents of that town gathered at the docks to watch the battle, which included a little bombing from the air and much maneuvering of naval craft.

For a while the situation appeared to be serious and a state of siege was declared, under which the army and the rest of the navy were called into action against the rebels.

The communistic group, reportedly led by a naval corporal named Pozo, seized the cruisers Almirante Grau and Coronel Bolognesi during the night and imprisoned the ships' officers.

The rebels were hemmed in the Callao Harbor by the four submarines and the remaining destroyer—the rest of the navy—and both sides waited for daylight.

Thousands filled the water front streets, piers and docks at Callao and watched airplanes flying over the rebel warships dropping messages urging

Golfer and Two Caddies Killed by Lightning

Nashville, Tenn., May 8 (U.P.).—One golfer and two caddies were killed and three others injured by a bolt of lightning that struck the party as it rushed from the fairway of Shelby municipal course here today, attempting to beat a downpour of rain. The dead are Roy Woodall, 28; Roy Pugh, 14, and Elliott Skelly, 16. The injured are Paul Swan, Ernest Criswell and H. C. Bratton.

The party, running at full speed, was about 75 yards from the clubhouse when the bolt struck. Woodall was struck directly, his body mutilated and his clothes torn to shreds. The bolt then leaped about 10 feet to pass through the bodies of the two caddies.

Fall Awaits Word To Set Him Free

Papers Expected to Arrive Today; Family Prepares for Reunion.

Santa Fe, N. Mex., May 8 (A.P.).—Albert B. Fall, having served the required part of his prison sentence for acceptance of a bribe, today awaited the arrival of amended commitment papers which will set him free.

The steel doors of the New Mexico State Penitentiary may open tomorrow for the 70-year-old former Secretary of the Interior. That depends upon the arrival of the papers by airmail from Washington to overcome the objection of Warden Ed Swope to releasing Fall while the commitment said he should serve out or pay a $100,000 fine.

Asked if Fall would be released immediately upon the arrival of the papers, Warden Swope replied:

"Well, maybe."

The warden declined to say whether he would make any especial effort to expedite the procedure. Members of Fall's family said he would be taken by motor ambulance or train to his old home in El Paso, Tex. Mrs. Fall, her two daughters, Mrs. C. C. Chase and Mrs. Jouett Elliott, and Mr. Chase were here for the family reunion. Mrs. Fall visited her husband at the prison today.

26 FEARED DEAD AS SLIDES BURY FRENCH HOUSES

Herriot, Mayor of Lyons, Has Close Call in Directing Relief.

IS LAST OF RESCUERS TO JUMP TO SAFETY

Explosions and Fires Hamper Extrication of Victims From Debris.

Lyons, France (Monday), May 9 (A.P.).—Landslides that buried two apartment houses on the outskirts of Lyons yesterday endangered the life of former Premier Edouard Herriot and were feared to have killed 26 persons who were reported missing after the slides.

Twelve persons were removed from the debris with serious injuries before rescuers were warned away by M. Herriot, Mayor of Lyons, who jumped to safety only when the last rescuer had left the danger zone.

Cries were heard in the ruins last night, however, and despite the danger of further slides resoue workers renewed their efforts. At midnight they discovered a woman pinned by a beam. She said she was unhurt and stimulants were passed to her.

Middle Class District.

The landslides, followed by explosions and fire, occurred in the middle class district of Caliure. The first struck the buildings at about 9 a. m. before many of the residents had awakened and cracked gas mains.

The fire department responded and rescued 12 persons before a second and larger slide came down the hillside. Both buildings collapsed under the strain. Fire Chief Rossingnol suffered a broken leg and was dragged to safety just in time.

M. Herriot leaped to the top of the ruins when firemen refused to obey his request to leave after engineers had announced that a new collapse of walls was threatening.

"Do you wish to be killed?" he said. "I insist you get back."

The firemen withdrew and the mayor waited until the last one had reached the safety zone. Then he jumped to safety.

Soldiers Assist.

He had gone to the scene from his home, which was several hundred yards away, and helped bring out the bodies of two women. Later he left for Paris, where returns from the election of a new Chamber of Depu-

The disturbance was reported moving almost due northward toward Bermuda.

Massie Party Sails After Clash on Ship

Honolulu Police Blocked From Serving Subpena by Naval Officers Who Use Force to Insure Attack Victim's Passage.

Honolulu, May 8 (A.P.).—Lieut. and Mrs. Thomas H. Massie and their party sailed aboard the S. S. Malolo for San Francisco at noon today after heavy fisted naval officers prevented service of a subpena upon Mrs. Massie as she boarded the craft through a cargo port.

Officers and police clashed after Mrs. Massie slipped aboard by a ruse, but when the Malolo pushed out past Diamond Head with the band on the dock playing Aloha Oe, Mrs. Massie was aboard with her husband and mother, Mrs. Granville Fortescue.

A clash for a few minutes in a hot corridor three decks down appeared for a time to be a prelude to serious trouble.

It started when Dewey Mookini, Honolulu policeman, tried to serve Mrs. Massie a subpena to appear as a prosecution witness in the retrial of the assault case against four Hawaiians charged with attacking her.

Capt. Ward K. Wortman, stocky naval officer, ran football interference for Mrs. Massie as the party went aboard the Malolo.

Shortly before the Malolo was due to sail, while a huge flower bedecked throng waited at the dock in expectation of seeing the defendants in the recent Joseph Kahahawai murder trial, a gray submarine tender from Pearl Harbor drew up alongside the liner opposite the pier.

Hurriedly, Massie, his wife and Mrs. Fortescue stepped aboard the vessel through a cargo port.

Mookini was waiting with a subpena in his hand. He started reading it to Mrs. Massie.

Wortman, Massie's commander at the submarine base, lowered a heavy shoulder and collided with Mookini.

Mrs. Massie darted up the corridor.

"I shall report you to your superior officer," Wortman stormed.

"You assaulted me," Mookini retorted.

Wortman thrust Mookini back against the wall while Mrs. Massie

AKRON ON LONG TRIP TO WEST; 80 ABOARD

Two Planes Make Contact in Midair as Huge Craft Quits Lakehurst.

Lakehurst, N. J., May 8 (U.P.).—The United States Navy's greatest dirigible, the Akron, carrying a full complement of 80 officers and men, rose through rolling clouds over this airport early this morning, and pointed her silver nose southward over the route she is following to California.

It was the beginning of the Akron's first transcontinental voyage, and the event was signalized by spectacular aerial acrobatics, in which two Navy aviators hooked their fighting planes into her trapeze and were hauled aboard to join their comrades at breakfast, while their planes were stowed in the ship's hangar.

Departure of the big ship, commanded perhaps for the last time by Lieut Comdr. C. E. Rosendahl, was an exhibition of clock-like efficiency.

During the night, Commander Rosendahl and his twelve officers studied weather maps and charted a tentative course over Norfolk, Charleston and New Orleans, and thence by way of San Antonio and El Paso, to California.

At 5 a. m., after a sleepless night, the crew trundled the ship out of her hangar, with the commander directing operations from the forward control room. The sky was overcast, and dark clouds were scudding past, 600 feet above.

Two hours later, as visibility increased and an occasional shaft of sunlight came through, the order to let go was given, and the Akron rose easily and powerfully into the

Indo-China Storm Claims 500 Lives

Several Europeans Among Victims of Wind in French Colony.

Hanoi, French Indo-China, May 8 (A.P.).—Five hundred persons were killed, including several Europeans, by a hurricane which swept in from the China Sea across the southern tip of the State of Annam last Wednesday, it was learned today.

The coastal town of Phanthiet, some 75 miles east of Saigon, capital of French Cochin China, and the Town of Bangoy, 30 miles farther along the coastal railway, appeared to be the worst victims of the storm. Information was very difficult to obtain from many parts of the stricken area because of wrecked comunications, but it was determined that railways, bridges, roads and farms had been torn up over the 30-mile coastal area.

The towns of Cana and Dran were obliterated by the wind and the European population of Cana was shelterless. Several hundred natives were drowned or otherwise killed.

MYSTERY PAIR TRY TO PURCHASE BABY

Offer Couple in Carolina $50,000 for Child Which Looks Like Flier's.

Special to The Washington Post.

Shelby N. C., May 8.—A strange development in the Lindbergh kidnaping was enacted here today when an unidentified man and woman offered $50,000 for the adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Camp, who strongly resembles the Lindbergh baby.

The man and woman rode to the Camp home this afternoon and sought to purchase the child, offering at first a small sum of money, and then raising the price to $50,000, which they offered in immediate payment, saying they had the money with them.

When Camp refused the offer, they left in the automobile which bore a North Carolina license plate, with a small tag attached bearing the name "Concord City, N. C." Concord City is about 30 miles from Shelby.

Camp went to the sheriff and informed him of the attempt to purchase the child, which he adopted a few days before the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped. He told the sheriff that the man and woman had asked that everything be kept "very quiet."

The child entered the Lindbergh case three weeks after the kidnaping when police were asked to determine the ownership of the child. The police established that the Camps adopted the child, and it was eliminated from the Lindbergh search.

Ransacking of Fortescue Residence Is Disclosed

Sayville, N. Y., May 8 (A.P.).—The home of Maj. and Mrs. Granville Fortescue was broken into and ransacked, police reported tonight. The time of the entry was not given. The intruders seemingly took nothing, but private papers were thrown about. State troopers said entrance was gained by cuting a pane of glass from a window.

Maj. Fortescue has been ill recently in a New York hospital. His wife, Mrs. Grace Fortescue, was one of the defendants convicted of the killing of an alleged attacker of her daughter, Mrs. Thalia Massie, in Honolulu.

Lindbergh Agents Quit Yacht for Air

Curtis and Others Leave Norfolk; Believed to Be on Plane Trip.

Norfolk, Va., May 8 (A.P.).—Activities in the two-month search for the Lindbergh baby by three Norfolk intermediaries had apparently shifted again tonight from the sea to the air.

The yacht Marcon remained tied up at the naval base tonight, while John Hughes Curtis, the principal negotiator, and Lieut. George L. Richard, naval officer, serving as his aid, were believed to be away on a trip by plane. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, reported to have come to the naval base to participate in the search for his infant son, is believed to have left the base also.

Pittsburgh, May 8 (A.P.).—After a mysterious two-day mission in Pittsburgh, Col. Henry P. Breckinridge, confidential aid of Col. Charles A Lindbergh, slipped out of the city over the week-end. His destination is unknown.

LONGER DEBT HOLIDAY SEEN FOR GERMANY

Lausanne Parley Likely to Extend Moratorium on Reparations.

TWO OR THREE YEARS MENTIONED AS TIME

Attempt to Revise Payments Is Expected to Follow Such Action.

Basel, Switzerland, May 8 (A.P.).—A source close to the Bank for International Settlements today expressed the opinion that the Lausanne conference of European powers next month likely would result in a short moratorium on reparations payments by Germany.

Most of the larger European governments have tentatively agreed to June 16 as the date of the Lausanne conference, which was called to decide what would be done about reparations and war debts at the end of the Hoover moratorium.

The authorities here said they thought the moratorium would be perhaps of two or three years duration and would be followed by an attempt to revise Germany's payments. A figure between 400,000,000 marks and 600,000,000 marks (about $95,000,000 to $144,000,000), annually was mentioned in this connection.

No prospects of permanent settlement of the reparations problem at Lausanne was regarded as apparent. It was understood the political chiefs concerned have been unable to reach a preliminary agreement, even upon the terms to be referred to the conference.

World Bankers Gather.

Bankers of the world powers gathered here today for the second annual meeting Tuesday of the Bank for International Settlements, with renewal of a $93,000,000 credit to Germany in prospect. The bank also is expected to declare a 6 per cent dividend.

Heads of the British, French, German, Italian, Swiss, Dutch and Swedish banks met informally and discussed their problems. It was understood afterward that the directors would authorize a renewal of the world bank's share in the $90,000,000 credit to Germany, which expires on June 4.

Despite the financial troubles of the past year the Bank for International Settlements has done a better business than during the first year.

The bank's earnings for the fiscal year 1931-32 exceeded the profit of 11,000,000 Swiss francs (about $2,145,000) made during 1930-31, a recent announcement said.

Ayala Appears Winner As Paraguay President

Asuncion, Paraguay, May 8 (A.P.). Eusebio Ayala, candidate of the dominant Liberal party, was expected to be Paraguay's next president as a result of an election today. Raul Casal Ribeiro, Liberal nominee for vice president, seemed equally sure of winning.

Martial law was suspended for the election for the first time since the disorders six months ago which caused President Jose Guggiari temporarily to delegate his powers to Vice President Gonzalez Navero. No disorders were reported today. Counting of the votes will begin in a few days.

Foes Take Control in Heavy Swing to Left.

RADICAL PARTY GETS 151 SEATS

Election Mostly Quiet, Out of Respect to Slain Doumer.

Paris (Monday), May 9 (A.P.).—Premier Andre Tardieu's government majority of the right center, which has controlled the Chamber of Deputies for the last four years, was routed in a heavy swing toward the left in yesterday's run-off election of a new chamber.

At 1:30 a. m. today, with virtually all the seats accounted for, including results from the first election last Sunday, the opposition parties had gained control of the chamber.

Edouard Herriot, leader of the Radical Socialists, appeared to be the dominant figure as his group rolled up a total of 151 seats, representing a gain of 42. The Socialists of Leon Blum had 129 seats, a gain of 18, and the Republican Socialists, also a left group, had 30. The Communists got nine seats and Dissident Communists obtained twelve.

Swing Aids Communists.

The Communists benefited by the swing to the left, gaining seats, although the Dissidents, who are not affiliated with the Moscow headquarters, made a better showing than the Moscow branch. A Communist political prisoner, M. Ramette, who now is serving his term, was elected from Doual.

The Independents also made good gains.

The election was quiet except at Oran, Algeria, where rioters fired revolvers outside an election hall and killed an official. A number were hurt at Bordeaux, where several thousand Socialists, parading in celebration of their success, collided with a Conservative group.

Jean Deschanel, son of former President Paul Deschanel, was elected to the chamber.

Mourning Quiet Prevails.

With the Radical Socialists wary of the formation of a government in cooperation with the Socialists, there were indications an effort would be made to form a government of the left center, with some such figure as former Premier Paul Painleve as premier.

Hushed in mourning for the late President Paul Doumer, victim of an assassin's bullets, the republic voted apathetically. The assassination, which was expected in some quarters to halt the swing toward the left displayed in the first election last Sunday, apparently had no effect on the voting.

Predictions that the left parties would be in a position to form a left coalition administration, similar to

BERLIN CAN NOT PAY, BRUENING ASSERTS

Predicts Lausanne Conference Will Lead World to Recovery or Chaos.

Berlin, May 8 (A.P.).—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening emphatically served notice today that Germany "can not pay reparations," and predicted the European financial conference at Lausanne a month hence would lead the way either to world recovery or world collapse.

Addressing German provincial correspondents on the government's foreign policy, the chancellor criticized the statesmen of the world for "lacking courage" and warned that "the peoples of the world won't wait any longer."

"The Lausanne conference," the head of the German cabinet declared, "will either be the road sign pointing the way to a new life or a milestone leading to collapse.

"There must be an end at last to our sacrifices. The world must realize we simply can not pay reparations.

"The Lausanne results will determine what fate is in store for Germany and the whole world—whether the world will continue to sink into misery or finally land on solid ground on which alone an epoch of reconstruction can be started.

"The eyes of all good-willed men are on Lausanne in a spirit of hope

Insurgent Porto Rican Democrats Plan Fight

San Juan, Porto Rico, May 8 (A.P.).—A rival delegation to the Democratic national convention to challenge the six delegates chosen here on April 23 was selected today by a group which left the former insular convention and since has incorporated itself as the Democratic party of Porto Rico.

The new delegation, uninstructed for any candidate for the Presidency, was told to urge the adoption of a platform plank favoring self-government for Porto Rico. W. R. Bennet was chosen national committeeman by the dissident group and will lead the fight for its recognition at the convention.

Japanese Open Attack In Northern Manchuria

Harbin, Manchuria, May 8 (U.P.). Inflicting scores of casualties on Chinese rebels, Japanese troops in northern Manchuria began a general attack today on foes of the new regime headed by Henry Pu-Yi.

The attack centered at Fancheng, some 90 miles northwest of Harbin, on the Sungari River in Kirin Province. It was one of the largest engagements yet fought in the region lying comparatively close to the Siberian frontier. Artillery opened the drive on Fancheng, and airplanes joined in, dropping many bombs which started fires. The city was soon aflame in many places.

Wickersham More Certain Vote on Dry Act Is Needed

Head of Famous Commission Breaks Long Silence to Say National Referendum Should Be Divorced From Presidential Campaign.

(Associated Press)

Out of two years of study with the famed Wickersham Commission and a subsequent 16 months of personal observation, George W. Wickersham feels "more strongly than ever" that a national referendum on prohibition is needed.

The 73-year-old former chairman of President Hoover's commission has dropped the silence that enshrouded him during the arduous and often troubled work of the commission.

In an interview, he spoke yesterday of his referendum view—expressed during the commission's deliberations—of the prohibition views of its members, their much discussed joint dry law summary and of the work of the commission's entire two-year law enforcement study.

Wickersham feels that the prohibition investigation wrongly overshadowed the great volume of the commission's labors but that this other work now is advancing in due course to fruition in betterment of the nation's handling of criminals.

As to a referendum, he expressed belief a vote on an amendment to the eighteenth amendment through state conventions would do great good in providing a needed crystallization of "the sober, informed and deliberate opinion of the people."

He made entirely clear, as he did in his portion of the commission's prohibition report, that such a means of sounding out public opinion should be divorced from politics. The State conventions elected solely for this purpose, he said, should be named in an off-presidential year.

Although he had had no opportunity to poll the recent views of other members of the commission, Wickersham said, he knew that several were

Hurley Pays Warm Tribute To Mothers at Arlington

War Secretary Addresses Gold Star Gathering at Amphitheater Rites; Points Out That Unselfishness Is Need; Woman Speaks at Cathedral.

A chain of mutual affection linked the hearts of all men and women in Washington yesterday when Mother's Day was observed in the shadows of great monuments and within the faded walls of humble homes.

The largest and most impressive ceremonies were conducted at the Arlington Amphitheater, where Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley addressed Gold Star Mothers, and in the newly opened choir and sanctuary of Washington Cathedral, where a woman spoke for the first time in tribute to the mother of George Washington.

As in times of war and during the struggles of pioneer days the ideals of the American mother are needed at the present time "to sustain us in a gigantic struggle," Secretary Hurley told the Gold Star Mothers and hundreds of others who filled the amphitheater to pay homage to the nameless mother of the Unknown Soldier.

The "buoyancy, courage and confidence" of the American mother is needed now as much as ever before in the history of the Nation, Mr. Hurley said.

"The besetting sin of mankind—selfishness—is at the base of the ills of the world today," the Secretary of War declared. "Our Nation—all nations—could well adopt that fundamental principle instilled in the youthful mind of George Washington: 'My mother taught me to despise selfishness.'

"As I look into the faces of the mothers assembled here," Mr. Hurley added, "I am convinced that as a Nation we are 'the heir of all the ages, in the foremost files of time.' We will overcome our difficulties by united effort, intelligent direction and unfaltering courage."

Mr. Hurley quoted also Abraham Lincoln's tribute to his mother: "All

WHIMPERING WETS' SCORED BY M'BRIDE

Dry Leader Says Agitation for Resubmission Planks Seeks Special Favor.

(Associated Press.)

P. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, in a formal statement yesterday asserted "the racket for deceptively named resubmission party planks is nothing more nor less than the whimpering of wets for a special favor."

"They can not win on the merits of their proposals, and dare not attempt repeal under the rules for constitutional amendment observed by the drys in their fight for prohibition," McBride added in his statement, in which he reiterated the declaration "prohibition always has been and is now a nonpartisan issues."

Neither party should take a stand, he continued, as they "were not asked to and did not do anything as parties to help secure national prohibition."

Called Futile and Insincere.

Referring to recent State party conventions adopting planks "purporting to favor resubmission," McBride said: "Any such wet resolutions that have been or may be adopted are as futile as they are insincere. They seek to substitute the will of State and national party delegates, many of whom are selected by party bosses, for the decision by United States senators and congressmen in the matter of amending the Constitution. To advocate this proposed process in the name of a referendum is nothing less than political fraud."

Contending "the liquor forces" could support an amendment providing for constitutional amendments by popular vote, McBride said "obviously, however, the liquor leaders will not trust the people in a real referendum, as they never have."

Prediction that the work of "setting up 48 systems of liquor control" in the States "will be in full swing within a short time" was made yesterday by Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, in an open letter to each senator.

Accompanying the letter was a pamphlet entitled "What Shall Replace Prohibition?" which Curran described as "an authentic exposition of liquor control systems now in effect in other countries, every one of which has proven more successful than our own attempt to enforce total abstinence by criminal compulsion upon a far-flung Nation of 120,000,000 people."

"Unnatural Burden" Scored.

"The chief purpose of this pamphlet," Curran said in a formal statement, "is to make available information which will assist the States in formulating proper liquor regulations as soon as the power to do so is returned to them through repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

In the letter, Curran told the senators "I can imagine the relief it will be to you to get out from under the unnatural burden of a national compulsory total abstinence system clamped upon you by the people of other States far from your borders," by each State establishing its own system.

He saw "final definite proof of the return of home rule in local affairs which we are soon to realize" in setting up the State control systems.

Japanese Troops Kill 30 Russian Guerillas

Harbin, Manchuria (Monday), May 9, (U.P.).—Thirty Sino-Russian guerrillas were killed when Japanese troops repulsed an attack on Mutankiang today.

Seven Russians were counted among the dead, Japanese officials said. The town that was attacked is on the east branch of the Chinese Eastern Railroad.

swirling mist above. It circled the airport, occasionally lost to view, while Lieut. D. W. Harrigan and Lieut. H. L. Young, warming up their two fighting planes, watched the low ceiling with anxiety. When the Akron reached a height of 1,800 feet, still hidden from the ground, her wireless operator flashed a message to Harrigan and Young to "come aboard." The two fliers shot their planes into the air and soared through the clouds. Unfortunately for those on the ground, the actual boarding of the Akron could not be seen. Later radio advices said that it had been accomplished "quickly and skillfully."

Set Course for Hatteras.

At 8:30 a. m., the Akron radioed to the Naval Station that the maneuver was over, and that she was setting her course for Cape Hatteras.

Aboard with Commander Rosendahl, who will be assigned to the usual tour of sea duty required of officers seeking regular promotion, was Commander Albert H. Dresel, who will succeed Commander Rosendahl as flight chief of the great dirigible, and Lieut. Comdr. C. T. Durgin. Dresel and Durgin were listed as "officer-passengers."

The enlisted personnel includes 22 riggers, 25 engineers, 13 staff enlisted men, and 4 men comprising the heavier-than-air unit who will care for the two planes the ship carries.

No officer would make a prediction a sto the probable length of the trip. It was believed that with good weather the Akron may reach Sunnyvale, near San Francisco, by Tuesday.

(Associated Press.)

In effect, Commander C. E. Rosendahl yesterday advised the Navy Department that those aboard the Navy airship Akron as it cruised toward the Pacific Coast were living the life of Riley.

As the queen of the air passed over the Carolinas, before turning westward, Commander Rosendahl reported that the ship was "in excellent condition and everything is functioning smoothly."

Those on duty of the fourscore passengers and crew members were enjoying the balmy spring breezes by listening to the radio programs while "puffing at cigars, pipes or cigarettes in the ship's smoking room."

The ship stayed high above the clouds the first several hours as she passed down the Atlantic Coast, and then pointed southward toward El Paso, Tex. At the time of the commander's message the Akron was 1,600 feet up and moving at 50 knots an hour.

Gross to Ask Explanation On Termination of Service

Denies Leaving Post Without Permission During Diplomatic Career; Says He Has Been in City on Order of Stimson Since Leaving Assignment.

Denying that he at any time "vanished from sight" during his career in the Diplomatic Service, Christian Canning Gross, embassy secretary and popular member of the foreign service corps, whose "separation" from the service was announced Saturday by the State Department, last night told The Post that he had been in Washington since March 1 by order of Secretary of State Simpson.

Gross, who gained the limelight during divorce proceedings while he was stationed in Paris and again during a legal battle in Chicago, when he attempted to determine who should have custody of his children, declared he was recalled from his last post, in Ottawa, Canada, and ordered to report to the State Department to "await orders." Since then, he said, he has made his home at 3238 R street northwest.

In a statement last night Gross declared:

"For several months I contemplated the possibility of resigning from the Diplomatic Service so as to educate my children in the United States. Two years ago I did offer my resignation, but it was not accepted. I withdrew it with the assurance that the domestic situation which was developing regarding my children need not deter me from continuing my career.

"A report now having emanated from the State Department during the absence of Secretary Stimson to the effect that the termination of my career had become effective, it is my intention when the Secretary returns to ask him to review all circumstances surrounding and leading to my separation from the Diplomatic Service."

Gross pointed out that he had done nothing in violation of the regulations and at no time left his post without leave of absence. He will not attempt to "battle" the State Department, Gross said, but will only endeavor to "straighten out the situation."

During his service as secretary to Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, in Paris, Gross was highly commended for his excellent work and judgment. He received the Distinguished Service Cross for bravery in action in Russia in 1919.

WICKERSHAM MORE CERTAIN VOTE ON DRY ACT IS NEEDED

of similar opinion concerning the public expression on prohibition.

He was asked concerning discussion of the summary of the commission's prohibition report. Opponents of the dry law complained widely at the time that although a majority of the members in their individual reports contended the dry law had missed its mark and should be changed in some fashion, the conclusion of the entire report said:

"The commission is opposed to repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

Here is his answer:

How Commission Stood.

"Six of the members felt in varying degrees that prohibition was not a success in its form at that time.

"Four of us felt that it was not being enforced properly, but that sufficient opportunity had not been given to judge it a failure.

"One member (Newton D. Baker) felt that the whole question should be remitted at once to the States.

All were opposed to return of the saloon.

"The summary represented the best view we could obtain from the conflicting opinions.

"A majority agreed that if the amendment was revised it should be made to read that Congress shall have power to regulate or prohibit the manufacture and transportation within the United States."

Wickersham feels now as he did sixteen months ago that the commission's dry law investigating was far from being the most important or valuable part of its work.

Crime and Social Conditions.

"Out of the cloud that surrounded the commission through its prohibition study," he said, "is coming a realization that it really did an immense amount of work outside of prohibition, not that there is less interest now in prohibition.

"In my travels over the country I find more and more bodies discussing crime in its relation to social conditions. Letters are coming to me in larger number asking about other phases of the commission's study.

"I am told that some of the prints of various of the reports have become exhausted."

Asked which part of the study had become most reflected in the Nation's legal proceedings, he named the report on delinquent children, pointing out that part of its conclusions recently had been ordered into effect by the Justice Department.

Commission Reunion.

"We are making progress slowly in seeing the fruition of our work," he said. "It takes a long time to alter legal conditions. The first step is to formulate recommendations, the second is to gain widespread discussion of them, and the third is to put them into force. We are now in the midst of the second stage."

Mr. Wickersham has been presiding here at a meeting of the American Law Institute. The gathering provided opportunity for the largest reunion of members of the historic commission since it disbanded.

Present in the same hotel at one time or another were Mr. Wickersham, Mr. Baker, mentioned for the Democratic presidential nomination; Dean Roscoe Pound, of Harvard Law School; Monte Lehmann, New Orleans lawyer, who declined to sign the prohibition report, and Frank J. Loesch, of Chicago.

HOOVER CALLS LEADERS AGAIN TO MAP NEW ECONOMY PLAN

tion bill now in the hands of the Senate appropriations committee.

Senators attending the meeting reached an agreement to leave all the talking to Mr. Mills. He came out last and spoke very sparingly and very cautiously, always smiling.

It is known the President is very hopeful for the organization of a strong nonpartisan combination behind the tax-economy program.

Block Formed on Tax.

A nonpartisan combination was forming in the Senate yesterday behind the compromise tax program to speed its enactment.

As conversations begun Saturday night at the White House between President Hoover and Senate leaders continued, confidence was expressed that united action is in prospect for the vital tax legislation.

The plan is a bold one and unique in Senate procedure. It is to seek adoption of the whole complex tax schedule embodied in the compromise program as a unit.

The tariff items are excluded from this plan. They will be voted upon separately. But what is desired is one vote on the whole tax schedule, income rates, excise rates and all.

Of course, individual amendments will be offered and will be voted upon. However, a dominant agreement for the whole tax schedule is hoped for to forestall individual raids.

It was emphasized that the President is seeking nonpartisan action. We called in Republican chieftains Saturday night to secure their cooperation on the proposition. That was assured. The President is consulting with Democratic leaders also.

Night sessions of the Senate are planned, and a drive to put the all-important revenue-raising bill through that body in a week or ten days is in the making.

The finance committee meets this morning to go over the revised bill and it will make a report of the legislation to the Senate immediately.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, hopes to have the Senate begin work on the bill by Wednesday.

Adopted by Committee.

The adoption by the committee of the whole compromise plan worked out by Secretary Mills opened the way for the program now in hand.

The committee accepted the entire schedule in one vote, 13 to 4. Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, advanced the proposal for one encompassing vote. The compromise includes propositions advanced by both Republicans and Democrats.

The bill as it now stands provides for higher income tax rates than the House bill, for the same inheritance and gift taxes voted by the House, and for higher automobile levies.

Many of the special excise taxes in the House measure and provisions termed "punitive" by Secretary Mills are elliminated.

Meanwhile, prompt revival on the Senate floor of the fight for import levies in the tax bill was foreshadowed in a formal statement of Senator Shortridge (Republican), California, promising to seek a levy on manganese, "for military purposes."

Shortridge termed early development of domestic deposits "vital," and asserted the proposed 1 cent a pound tax would "bring forth developments and aid unemployment and distress in mining and rural districts in widely distributed areas throughout the United States."

"But above all, it will relieve the United States of its dependency upon its manganese sources of supply, now 4,000 miles away," he added.

McDuffie Raps President.

The charge that President Hoover had "yielded to the common temptation to play politics at a time when no one, be he Democrat or Republican, should seek personal political advantage" was made yesterday by Representative McDuffie, of Alabama, House Democratic whip.

McDuffie made the charge in a statement through his office, while Senator Bratton, of New Mexico, in another through the Democratic national committee, said Mr. Hoover's statements of last Thursday and Friday were efforts to "raise a straw man on the subject of economy in order to strike him down."

"The impartial observer and many of the President's own followers can not understand why such a message was not sent to Congress with his budget estimates in December," McDuffie said, "or at least when a nonpartisan program to save $200,000,000 was presented to the House. Such a message then might have been of great assistance, but the President's hindsight seems to have been better than his foresight. * * *

"It also happens that the President's statement came quickly after the news was flashed from his home State of California that more Democrats registered and voted in the primary elections there than ever before in history.

"Could it be that the President's message was designed with the view of discrediting Speaker Garner and the Democratic House? If so, the country will recall that the slight Democratic majority in the House has cooperated with the Chief Executive in every major proposal for relief of a sorely stricken Nation.

"The Speaker went so far as to take the floor—an unusual action—and secured a unanimous pledge from the entire membership of the House to balance the Nation's budget."

Bratton's Attack.

In his statement, Senator Bratton said it should not be forgotten the Treasury deficit was created during the Hoover administration and that "Mr. Hoover took no steps either to increase Government revenue or to decrease Government expenses" even though "prudent and farsighted men" foresaw the present condition of Federal finances.

Asserting the President made only "casual suggestions" for economy when Congress convened in December, Mr. Bratton said the "Democrats immediately sought to bring about reduction in governmental expenses, but these efforts found little response in any executive department."

He charged the Cabinet members opposed the 10 per cent cuts advocated by the Democrats in the Senate on supply bills and that "it comes with questioned grace now for the President to join the chorus in denunciation of Congress."

U. S. TO BE NEUTRAL IN LATIN ELECTIONS

Officials Here Refrain From Interfering in Nicaragua and Honduras.

The United States will maintain its traditional impartiality in the choice of candidates for the Presidency in Nicaragua and Honduras, it was learned here yesterday following the report that several political figures in those countries were giving the impression that their candidate had the support of the State Department.

Elections are scheduled in these two countries this autumn, and the electioneering already has begun.

The State Department scrupulously refrains from taking any part whatsoever in the personalities of the candidates. In Nicaragua, American influence will be confined rigorously to the supervision of the elections. The electoral commission is in the process of formation under direction of Rear Admiral Clark Howell Woodward, who will direct the corps of specially trained Americans in their administration of the election contest next November.

The forthcoming contest in both Honduras and Nicaragua will center about two figures who have been noted for their loyal and independent attitude in Pan American affairs: Dr. Angel Zuinga Huete, a young lawyer, who will be remembered here for his work with the Guatemalan-Honduran boundary dispute; in Nicaragua, one of the candidates for the presidency is expected to be Dr. Juan V. Sacasa, former Minister here.

The provisions of the various treaties which specify the conditions of recognition and the procedure of succession will be the fundamental principle by which American relations with Central American republics will be carried on. Equal treatment on the same basis with other countries is the desire of this Government.

Brazilian Election Scheduled.

Rio de Janeiro, May 8 (A.P.).—General elections as part of the plan to restore constitutional government to Brazil have been scheduled for May 3, 1933, by the cabinet of President Getulio Vargas.

Two Die in Fight With Smugglers.

Montevideo, Uruguay, May 8 (A.P.). Two men were killed and several wounded when a patrol of police attacked a gang of smugglers operating on the Brazilian frontier today.

Mendoza Shaken by Temblor.

Mendoza, Argentina, May 8 (A.P.). A slight earth tremor was felt here at 3:22 p. m. today.

15 Hurt in Tegucigalpa Fire.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, May 8 (U.P.).—Fire which raged in the center of Tegucigalpa for 24 hours before it was checked today destroyed the Hotel Canton and a number of business establishments with a loss estimated at $300,000. Fifteen persons were injured fighting the blaze.

Chilean Gasoline Duty Cut.

BERLIN CAN NOT PAY, BRUENING WARNS

and yearning, impatience and demand."

He said the world statesmen lacked courage to tell their peoples the facts as they are and warned that their aid may be too late if delayed.

"Don't they realize that the demonlike spirits of negation and destruction are gaining ground?" he asked. "We can not wait longer because the peoples of the world won't wait longer. We need not a multiplicity of conferences but of deeds."

The chancellor then took up his own attitude in dealing with the representatives of foreign powers.

"I realize clearly that I can obtain the maximum for Germany only in the same time I can prove that Germany's aims coincide with the enlightened self-interest of the world.

"The tragedy of the Versailles treaty lies in the fact that some nations thought they could secure for themselves all good fortune, while all misfortune was to be left to the defeated.

"This false and unnatural conception of peace has been proven completely wrong by post-war events. Unless there can be a change the world will ever be pushed deeper into the horrible misery known as the economic crisis and unemployment."

Dr. Bruening held that mutual confidence could not be established so long as there was inequality between the victors and vanquished in the World War.

"All Germany rightly rises up," he said, "against the injustice of our being prevented the exercise of what every nation claims as its highest and most natural right, that of determining measures for the security of our homes.

"Germany desires no special privileges in armaments. She simply demands equality."

The chancellor referred to Germany's neighbors as bristling with armaments.

He mentioned as a hopeful sign the disappearance of a spirit of hatred toward Germany, which he said Germans encountered for years after the conclusion of the war.

Oil Imports Fight Laid to Interests

Senator McGill Hits Effort to Force Independent Producers Out.

(Associated Press.)

A charge that interests seeking a monopoly of the industry are back of the agitation against the oil imports tax in the revenue bill was made yesterday by Senator McGill (Democrat), Kansas, in a statement.

"Monopolistic interests have been the beneficiaries of unfair competition," Senator McGill declared in his blast at opponents of the oil tax. "They are attempting to drive the small independent oil producer of America out of business.

"In their propaganda they refer to the small excise tax on oil as 'an embargo' when in truth and in fact the tax is not as high as it could be and should be made, and still be a simple revenue tax.

"This skillful propaganda is merely intended to bring sufficient pressure on members to defeat this tax in an effort to further the schemes of four large oil importing firms for crushing the independent operator.

"If these ends be accomplished it will not be long until the American people are absolutely at their mercy and called upon to pay exorbitant prices for crude oil, fuel oil, gasoline and other by-products."

NEGROES CELEBRATE ARRIVAL IN AMERICA

Representative Thatcher, of Kentucky, Lauds Race on 313th Anniversary.

The 313th anniversary of the arrival of the Negro in continental America was observed last night at a meeting in Pythian Hall, Twelfth and U streets northwest. Representative Maurice H. Thatcher, of Kentucky, was the principal speaker. He called attention to the large number of colored men and women in the West Indies and Latin America prior to the Negro's presence in Virginia, and traced the significance of their habitation in various latitudes.

"The colored man has played an important part, not only in development of the United States, but also in the building of the Panama Canal, contributing largely to the success of that enterprise," he said. "I hope some time to see a suitable memorial erected there to commemorate the services of all who contributed, and there should be included in such memorial appropriate recognition of the contribution of the colored man to the success of this, the greatest industrial enterprise in all history.

"Through all vicissitudes, the Negro has known no flag but the Stars and Stripes, has thrown no bombs and assassinated no rulers. His progress has been principally along lines of thrift, industry, faith and patience, the fixed and constant stars to which all races must look for inspiration and guidance, before our Nation shall overcome a world-wide depression and move again into the paths of prosperity and security."

Drawing of a proposed monument to Crispus Attucks, Massachusetts Negro, who died on Boston Common, were exhibited by Dr. Simon P. W. Drew, who presided, and who has proposed erection of such monument in the triangle at Tenth and U streets northwest. Meetings in interest of this proposal will be held weekly. Representative John J. Boylan, of New York, will be the principal speaker next Sunday.

Boy, 8, Retrieving Ball, Injured by Automobile

Charles Hudson, 8 years old, of 485 E street southwest, was slightly injured yesterday when struck by an automobile as he ran into the street near his home to retrieve a ball which had bounded into the thoroughfare. The car was operated by Mary Ashton, 42 years old, colored, of 1245 Carrollberg street southwest.

The child was taken to Providence Hospital and treated for abrasions of the legs and face.

Woman Injured as Car Collides With Another

Mrs. M. V. Siegel, 37 years old, of 4213 Illinois avenue northwest, was slightly injured yesterday when her automobile was struck by another car at Thirteenth and Irving streets northwest. The second car was operated by Shirley L. Graff, 18 years old, of 2735 Connecticut avenue.

Mrs. Siegel was taken to Garfield Hospital suffering from a possible fracture of the right arm and shock.

The proceeds of the fiesta will be used to send the drum corps to the legion convention at Portland, Oreg.

REVOLUTION IN PERU QUELLED BY 4 SHOTS

them to surrender. This failed. Then the planes dropped bombs nearby, to the accompaniment of loud hurrahs for President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro from the spectators.

It then became apparent that there was no revolutionary activity aboard the Grau, and that the rebellious element in its crew had joined the crew of the Bolognesi, which was still holding out.

The four submarines started a fanlike encircling movement. The Bolognesi ran up the red flag and fired twice at the nearest submersible, the R-3. The submarine responded with its small arms, firing two projectiles into the air, and then lowering sights and firing twice at the Bolognesi. One shell hit the bow and burst a petroleum tank.

That was enough. The rebels ran up a white flag and soldiers boarded their craft. All the sailors who participated in the disturbance, presumably numbering a few score, were taken to San Lorenzo Isle Prison.

As the revolt ended, the audience went wild with enthusiasm, shouting ceaseless hurrahs for the government.

A member of the Apra party (Communist), shouted, "Long live Apra!" He was almost lynched before the police could rescue him.

FESTIVAL OF YOUTH PLANNED SATURDAY

Children of Entire City Will Join Tribute to George Washington in Park.

Plans are being rapidly completed for the city-wide "Festival of Youth" next Saturday in which children from every juvenile educational, recreational and patriotic organization and agency will join in a big demonstration in honor of the George Washington Bicentennial. The festival has been planned and is being directed by Miss Sibyl Baker, assisted by a committee of directors of children's activities throughout the city.

Hundreds of boys and girls will participate in the varied events, many of which will be staged simultaneously in the Potomac Park area. At the Sylvan Theater, in the Monument Grounds, 500 boys and girls will participate in a program, comprising colorful dances and musical numbers to be presented beginning at 12:45 p. m., and continuing until 4 o'clock. This feature of the day's program has been organized by Mrs. Elizabeth K. Peeples, director of the Community Center Department, who is being assisted by group leaders from the public schools, community centers, patriotic organizations, social agencies and settlement houses in the city.

Boy Scouts, directed by Col. E. L. Mattice, will serve as aids to the directors and group leaders throughout the afternoon's program at the Sylvan Theater, in which each group will present its own "ten-minute program" without intermission. The audience, comprised in part of the actors themselves, will enjoy the proceedings, seated on the Monument's grassy slopes, which at 5 o'clock, will be the scene of the vast procession of tribute, planned as the climax of the festival.

This procession, which is under the immediate supervision of Mrs. Marie Moore Forrest, who has been assisted in its organization by Mrs. Donna Taggart, will form at Constitution avenue and Fifteenth street at 4 p. m., and will march around the Monument's base, and be reviewed on the south slope by a reviewing committee.

The procession will be organized in six main divisions, the grand marshal being Cadet Col. Chester Morrill, jr., and the assistant grand marshal being Cadet Col. Ernest Anderson, of the High School Cadet Corps.

MRS. MASSIE AVOIDS SUBPENA BY SAILING reached her stateroom and slipped inside. Mrs. Fortescue followed her.

Mookini thrust past Wortman, pushed open the door and sought to read the subpena again.

The door was slammed in his face. Then Mrs. Fortescue, her eyes blazing, opened the door and came out.

"Will some one go for Mr. Darrow?" she asked.

Wortman and Mookini stood outside the doorway and laced each other up and down, each accusing the other of taking the offensive.

"Don't you ever lay your hands on me again," Wortman said.

"You can't give me orders," Mookini shot back.

"Say sir, when you speak to me!" thundered Wortman.

"You say sir to me then," said Mookini. "I am entitled to some respect."

Massie, who had walked up, meanwhile, was calm. He seemed to have a quieting effect on his superior officer and on Mookini.

Clarence Darrow, counsel for Massie, Mrs. Fortescue and two Navy enlisted men, A. O. Jones and E. J. Lord, in the murder trial, did not participate in the fray. He also is sailing on the ship.

As Massie walked up to Mookini he put his hand out. Mookini accepted it.

"No hard feelings here," said Massie. "I know what your duty is."

"Sure, the same as yours," Mookini agreed.

Then Wortman extended his hand and he and Mookini made up.

"Now that's the fine way to look at it," Mookini said, while Wortman grinned.

Subpena Not Served.

Meanwhile, the subpena had not been served. Two of Mookini's companions, Arthur Stegbar and Lolo McCallum, members of the detective force, had stood quietly during the clash between Wortman and Mookini.

Massie invited them into his stateroom where they stayed several minutes and signed their names in his scrapbook.

Darrow left Hawaii with no rancor for the courts which convicted his clients, but with bitter condemnation for the "bunk and piffle" of law books.

"I am happy and satisfied," he said. He praised the American people and the newspapers, which he said, brought freedom to the four Americans he defended on murder charges for the slaying of Kahahawai.

Darrow praised Circuit Judge Charles Davis, who presided at the trial of the four charged with lynching a Hawaiian.

Praises Judge.

"He is a fine man," the attorney said, "he is honest and fair and not just that. Judge Davis is a scholar, a humanitarian. He knows what a lot of bunk and piffle law books are, but he is bound by rules of law. Of course he had to tell the jury they couldn't consider their own feelings and that no man is justified in taking the law into his own hands. For my own part I would like to never again go into a courtroom."

"But the greatest service rendered me or my clients was by the newspapers," he continued to newspapermen. "I wanted the whole country to know about this case and I didn't have to ask for it. The newspapers gave me a jury of 100,000,000 to talk to. Oh, I know you didn't do it to help me or the case. But it helped nevertheless.

"Do you think we would have gotten a commutation if the people back in Washington hadn't read all about it?"

Darrow's stay in the islands appears to have helped him despite his long hours of hard work on the trial and the fact he passed his seventy-fifth birthday here. He looks stronger and more vigorous.

Roosevelt Expected to Beat Murray in West Virginia; White Gets Ohio.

(United Press.)

Presidential primaries in Ohio and West Virginia furnish the political headlines this week.

Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma, the "Alfalfa Bill" who was spectacular earlier in the West, but who has captured only 23 Democratic convention delegates thus far, reenters the scene this week in the East.

He is running in both the Ohio and West Virginia primaries on Tuesday. Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is his opponent in West Virginia, generally is conceded the victory of that State's 16 delegates to add to his present total of 355.

Murray is not represented by any delegate contestants in the Ohio primary, but is a candidate only for preferential votes. Gov. George T. White will get Ohio's 53 convention votes in the primary as Ohio's favorite son, under an arrangement whereby the delegation may shift to other "favorite sons" after a few ballots at the convention. The others include Senator Robert J. Bulkley, Newton D. Baker and former Gov. James M. Cox, who was the 1920 Democratic candidate.

President Hoover will get Ohio's 55 Republican delegates and West Virginia's 19 to add to a string that already assures his renomination. Republican conventions also will be held in Wyoming on Monday; Tennessee, Tuesday, and the District of Columbia, Wednesday.

Church Is Called Woman's Champion

Father Hurney, in Radio Talk, Says Sexes Are on Equal Basis.

The Catholic Church is opposed to the movement of leaving the formation and training of the children entirely to the school, because it is the mother who gives it character training, the Rev. Francis J. Hurney said yesterday in a radio broadcast on the Catholic Radio Hour from the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

"The mother of today owes her position in society to the church," he said. "The church has ennobled womanhood and motherhood. The church recognizes no superiority or inferiority in the sexes. Both are on an equal plane, each with its own particular sphere in which it exercises its activity."

CHICAGO STEEL FIRM OFFICIAL ENDS LIFE

D. M. Ryerson Had Suffered Breakdown; Prominent in War Work.

Chicago, May 8 (A.P.).—Donald Mitchell Ryerson, 48, chairman of the board of the Joseph T. Ryerson & Sons, Inc., steel manufacturers, was found shot to death on his Lake Forest estate early today.

The body was found by his wife, Mrs. Isabelle McGenniss Ryerson, after she discovered a note in his room in which he indicated he was going to take his life.

The body was found lying on a beach that fronts the Ryerson mansion. A pistol from which one bullet had been fired into the man's head was found nearby.

Edward L. Ryerson, president of the steel corporation and brother of the victim, spoke for the family.

Had Suffered Breakdown.

"My brother for some months has been suffering from a nervous breakdown," he said. "Always of the nervous type, overwork broke down his resistance. Since last October, although still chairman of the board, he has had practically no connection with active operation of Joseph T. Ryerson & Son."

A verdict of suicide was reached by a coroner's jury at a Lake Forest mortuary a few hours after his death.

A second brother, Joseph T. Ryerson, treasurer of the corporation, was notified at New Haven, Conn., where he and his wife had gone last week.

Mr. Ryerson was one of the leading industrialists of Chicago. In addition to his connection with Ryerson Steel, he was president of Reed-Smith & Co., of Milwaukee, an affiliate.

Commended by Wilson.

Educated at Yale, his scientific and industrial training was made available to the Government during the World War when he supervised construction of submarine chasers.

He also fathered the idea of the "four-minute" men drive which floated the Liberty loans. The success of the plan won President Wilson's personal commendation. In addition to his civilian work Mr. Ryerson was a lieutenant in overseas destroyers service.

Active in civic and charitable work, Mr. Ryerson for several years was president of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society.

He was a member of the Chicago, Onwentsia, Saddle and Cycle, University, Casino and Shore Acres clubs.

The widow and two children, Isabelle Joan, 12, and Anthony Mitchell, 9; the two brothers, and his mother, Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, survive.

PAINLEVE IS PRESSED TO SEEK PRESIDENCY

Le Brun Formally Announces Candidacy to Succeed Paul Doumer.

Paris, May 8 (A.P.).—Paul Painleve, leader of the national cabinet in 1926, was being pressed by his friends today to become a candidate for president to succeed the slain Paul Doumer. It was learned he was in communication with Edouard Herriot, leader of the Radical Socialists (Liberals), and that friends were saying Herriot had promised to support M. Painleve. The former premier, however, was delaying his answer until he could consult with advisers.

Meanwhile Albert LeBrun, the president of the Senate, who has been mentioned as the most likely choice for president, today formally presented his candidacy. The election will be held jointly by the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate Tuesday, at Versailles.

Thousands Pay Tribute.

Thousands of Parisians filed past the presidential palace today in tribute to the venerable leader. The public will be admitted to the palace tomorrow.

After lying in state until Thursday morning, the body will be taken to Notre Dame Cathedral for funeral services and then conveyed to the Uantheon for burial. Doumer's successor will lead the nation in mourning.

The sympathy of the Russian government for France in the assassination of President Paul Doumer was extended today to Premier Andre Tardieu through the Russian Ambassador, Valerian Lavgalevsky. A letter forwarded to M. Tardieu said the Soviet Union had been "deeply affected by the abominable outrage," and conveyed the condolence of the ambassador personally.

Assassin Believed to Be Agent.

Paul Gorgouliff, the assassin of President Doumer, is a native of Russia. He said he was a Russian Fascist and a foe of the Communists. The French police, however, have said they had evidence he was a Bolshevist agent. Russian dispatches from Moscow today said the newspapers Izvestia and Pravda expressed indignation over "a French attempt to stamp Gorgouloff as a Soviet agent." The papers criticized France for harboring "white guard bandits."

Henri Geraud, famous as the defender of Raoul Vilain, who assassinated the Socialist Jean Leon Jaures in 1914, was named by the bar association today to defend Gorgouloff.

The police tonight said they were concentrating their investigation to determine definitely whether Gorgouloff was a Bolshevik agent provocateur or whether he had accomplices and the assassination was a culmination of a plot.

All organizations of white Russians disclaimed any association with Gorgouloff, some of them even saying they regarded him as a secret agent from Moscow and a man to be avoided at all costs.

Gorgouloff Reveals Plot.

Paris, May 8 (U.P.).—The existence of a "national triumvirate" which plotted to overthrow the Bolshevik regime and seize control of Russia was disclosed today by Paul Gorgouloff, the fanatical Russian assassin of President Paul Doumer.

While the government was completing preparations for Doumer's State funeral on Thursday, police said Gorgouloff told them he had joined with a German named Jakovleff, representative of a German silk firm, and a printer named Krinkine in the dream of war on the Soviets.

Jakovleff published a Russian newspaper in Paris. It was called "Nabat" (the Tocsin) and claimed to represent the views of 150,000,000 Russian peasants. The newspaper attacked Bolshevism and extolled Fascism. Jakovleff is believed to be in Berlin and Krinkine in Czechoslovakia.

Duce Heavily Guarded On Visit to Exposition

Rome, May 8 (A.P.).—Armed guards protected Premier Mussolini today as they have never done before when he appeared at the inauguration of the agricultural exposition.

Hundreds of persons with special passes were barred from the exposition. The premier went one hour earlier than scheduled and riflemen patrolled the vicinity. The assassination of President Doumer of France inspired extraordinary vigilance.

Wales Plans to Attend Doumer Funeral Rites

London, May 8 (A.P.).—The Prince of Wales is going to Paris Wednesday to represent the British government at the funeral of President Paul Doumer.

Steel Pay Cut Denounced At Methodists' Conclave

Atlantic City, N. J., May 8 (A.P.).—The United States Steel Corporation's latest wage cut was condemned by a speaker at the General Conference of Methodist Episcopal Church today as proof that a "pagan world" exists in America.

Prof. Harold E. Luccock, of Yale University Divinity School, speaking at a memorial service commemorating the 100th anniversary of the appointment of the Rev. Melville B. Cox as the first Methodist foreign missionary, said the United States should be converted before additional missionaries were sent abroad.

yen and on Scandinavian currencies, but it profited from the depreciation of the pound sterling to the extent of about 11,250,000 Swiss francs, making a net profit from currency depreciations of about 10,000,000 Swiss francs. (The Swiss franc currently is quoted at about 0.195).

Although total assets are lower than a year ago, higher interest rates enabled the bank to surpass its first year's profits.

The year was marked by the Hoover moratorium and by financial troubles in Germany and central Europe. The moratorium deprived the bank of an income of 1,250,000 Swiss francs, while resources were tapped by loans to Germany, Hungary and Jugoslavia.

The bank has participated in the following large loans: To Germany, $90,000,000; Austria, $12,000,000; Hungary, $20,000,000; Jugoslavia, $3,000,000.

UNION GROUP READY FOR KENTUCKY TOUR

Civil Liberties Party to Aid Striking Miners Includes Jesse C. Duke.

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—The American Civil Liberties Union announced tonight its party of professors and lawyers organized to penetrate the Kentucky coal fields to "aid in reestablishing civil rights for the coal miners" will leave New York on Wednesday.

The delegation will appear before Federal Judge A. M. J. Cochran, in London, Ky., the following day to seek an order restraining officials of Bell and Harlan Counties from interfering with its activities.

"If that move fails," the union announcement said, "we will call upon the governor for the protection of his office. But the party will make the trip, protected or not."

"Scene of Mob Violence."

The announcement declared Bell and Harlan Counties were in the control of big industrial corporations, of national scope, which seek to prevent the miners from organizing unions.

"For almost a year," the statement said, "these counties have been the scene of mob violence, lawlessness by public officials, gunmen rule, shootings, deportations and baseless prosecutions."

The avowed purpose of the delegation, which will be headed by Arthur Garfield Hays and Dudley Field Malone, is threefold: "To aid in the legal defense of the scores now under prosecution in both counties; to help the unhindered distribution of relief; to aid in restoring the right of the miners to hold public meetings and organize unions."

The trip originally was scheduled for April, but was postponed when Judge Cochran set May 12 for a hearing on the union's injunction petition.

Personnel of Party.

Other members of the party will include Prof. Broadus Mitchell, of Johns Hopkins University; Dr. Ernest Sutherland Bates, New Yoork, author and editor; Robert S. Keebler, Memphis attorney; Dr. John R. Neal, Knoxville attorney; Jesse C. Duke, attorney, of Virginia and Washington, D. C., and the Rev. Charles C. Webber, of the Union Theological Seminary.

Grover G. Sales, of Louisville, former circuit judge, will act as Kentucky attorney for the group. Mrs. Carol King, of New Yoork, will accoompany the party as representative of the American section of the International Juridical Association.

Three Kentuckians from Louisville, whose names will be announced later, will join the party.

Official Collapses At Geneva Dinner

Senator G. C. Robertson, of Canada, Reported Improving.

Geneva, May 8 (A.P.).—Senator Gideon C. Robertson, former labor minister of Canada, collapsed while dining with Albert Thomas, director of the International Labor Bureau, last Thursday, it was learned today.

Mr. Thomas became suddenly ill in a cafe in Paris last night and died of a heart attack in a taxicab enroute to a hospital.

(Paris dispatches said the police believed his death was natural, but because of Mr. Thomas' eminence an investigation was undertaken. He had gone to Paris to vote and to pay his respects to the slain President Doumer.)

Senator Robertson was taken to a nursing home, where today it was said he was making good progress toward recovery.

LAST RITES TODAY FOR GEN. CROWDER

Col. Hodges Will Represent Hoover at Funeral in Arlington.

Col. Campbell B. Hodges, aid to President Hoover, will act as the personal representative of the Chief Executive at the funeral of Maj.-Gen. Enoch H. Crowder at Arlington Cemetery, 11:15 a. m. today.

Gen. Crowder, first American Ambassador to Cuba and retired Judge Advocate General of the Army, died at Walter Reed Hospital Saturday after a prolonged illness, aggravated by an attack of pneumonia, which forced his return from Cuba, where he was visiting. The funeral will follow services at the Walter Reed Memorial Chapel, conducted by the hospital chaplain, R. Earl Boyd.

Honorary pallbearers at the funeral, which will be attended by full military honors, are: Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff; Maj. Blanton Winship, Judge Advocate General; Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War; Maj. Gen. Henry P. McCain, retired; Maj. Gen. Walter C. Bethel, retired; Maj. Gen. Francis J. Kernan, retired; Brig. Gen. James A. Ryan, retired; Col. James Easby-Smith, Washington attorney; Col. John D. Langston, Judge Advocate General Reserves; Col. Grant T. Trent, retired, and Maj. Jesse I. Miller, Judge Advocate General Reserves.

His outstanding service in organizing the selective draft during the World War was one of the greatest of Gen. Crowder's achievements while in army service. He was considered as one of the foremost legal experts of the army.

Keith-Miller Case "Leak" Is Mystery

U. S. Aid Will Be Asked in Tracing Source of News on Diaries.

Miami, Fla., May 8 (A.P.).—State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne plans to ask assistance of the Federal Government in locating an alleged leak of evidence presented to the Dade County grand jury in connection with the fatal shooting of Haden Clarke, it was learned tonight from an authoritative source.

The State attorney has failed to locate the source of news reports quoting diaries written by Capt. W. N. Lancaster, British flier, who is held under a first degree murder warrant in the case.

Hawthorne yesterday summoned six newspapermen before the grand jury. Later he refused to make a statement, but it was reported by courthouse attaches that no information concerning the leak was disclosed in the examination. Hawthorne was quoted as saying representatives of three enforcement branches of the Federal Government saw the diaries before they were taken with other documents into the grand jury room.

PREMIER TARDIEU CONTROL OF CHAMBER LOST AT POLLS

that of 1924, which was headed by M. Herriot, seemed likely to be borne out.

Policy Change Unlikely.

Whether the left parties would actually form another coalition was problematical. M. Herriot has not yet taken a clear stand on whether he would swing his Radical Socialist party to the Socialists of M. Blum, or endeavor to swing it toward the center and support a coalition government of a "Liberal" tinge.

In any event, little change in French foreign policy would be likely to result. In proportion as the balance of power swung more to the left there might be an easier relationship with Germany and other countries, but no marked difference was expected.

M. Blum's Socialists have called for nationalization of railways—now leased to private operators—and of insurance companies and a far-reaching system of state insurance, including unemployment insurance.

The new Chamber of Deputies is scheduled to be in its session in June.

Government Will Resign.

The run-off election filled 599 seats of the 615 in the new chamber, the first vote a week ago having failed to give the leading candidates in those constituencies the required majority. Only a plurality was needed for election yesterday.

Although the fate of Premier Tardieu's government of the right center was in the balance, it was one of the calmest elections in years, out of respect for the beloved President Doumer, the dignified symbol of republican statehood, who was assassinated in the closing days of the campaign.

Premier Tardieu's government will resign as a matter of custom immediately after the election of a new president this week, but will carry on governmental affairs until a new cabinet is formed.

How Parties Now Stand.

In the election of the new Chamber the party standings, including the first ballot a week ago, were as follows: Radical Socialists, 151; Socialists, 129; Communists, 9; Dissident Communists, 12; Republican Socialists, 39; Independent Radicals, 67; Left Republicans, 66; Democratic Republicans, 70; Popular Democrats, 16; Independents, 28; unattached, 6; Independent Republicans, 6; total, 599.

The standing of the last Chamber on April 1, from the groups of the Left to those of the Right, was: Communists, 11; Socialists, 111; French Socialists, 13; Republican Socialists, 13; Radical Socialists, 109; Left Independents, 28; Left Radicals, 50; Left Social Radicals, 16; Left Republicans, 63; Popular Democrats, 18; no group, 20; Democratic and Social Action, 30; Republican Democratic Union, 85; Independents, 42; total, 609.

Rich Distiller Defeated.

There were only 612 seats in the old chamber and 3 of them were vacant. Three new seats were added recently.

The first election of deputies was held yesterday for two seats in French India and French Guiana. The two divisions of Reunion Island will vote next Sunday.

Jean Hennessy, former minister of agriculture and a candidate for the presidency of the republic when the late President Doumer was elected over the late Aristide Briand last year, was defeated in yesterday's election for a seat in the chamber.

He is one of the wealthiest men in France and is head of the distillery house bearing his name. His defeat at Charente by M. Mallet, an engineer and a Left Republican, was one of the election surprises. M. Hennessy is a Radical Republican.

Communist Chief Loses.

Marcel-Cachin, leader of the Communist party in the old Chamber of Deputies, lost his seat on the second ballot in a district of Paris. A "proletarian unity" candidate, M. Sellier, gained the necessary plurality in the run-off to wrest the seat from Cachin, who has been a prominent exponent of the Communist doctrine since the war days.

Henri Franklin-Bouillon, Left Radical, who was president of the chamber's foreign affairs committee which led the criticism of French policies in the peace conference of 1919, was finally reelected.

Pierre Cathala, undersecretary of state, who also failed to obtain the required majority a week ago, was reelected yesterday.

LEAGUE BODY PLANS TO CONSIDER LOANS

Plight of Central Europe to Be Taken Up by Council at Session Today.

Geneva, May 8 (U.P.).—An economic and political problem so complex that it has baffled all attempts at solution will be revived tomorrow when the council of the League of Nations meets to consider again the plight of Central Europe, particularly Austria, Bulgaria, Greece and Hungary.

The council is pledged to take definite action on the recommendations of the league financial committee which on March 29, proposed, among other emergency measures:

For Austria, a foreign loan of 100,000,000 schillings.

For Greece, a foreign loan of $10,000,000.

For the Danubian states as a whole—Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia and Roumania—closer economic cooperation.

Approves Debt Moratoriums.

The last meeting of the council approved, with great reluctance, the partial foreign debt moratoriums of Greece and Bulgaria.

France and Britain, with large sums of money already invested in the Danubian countries, are not prepared to advance more without definite assurances that their previous loans will be repaid eventually, at least in part, and that future investments will be safe investments. Therefore, France and Britain proposed a customs entente between the Danubian countries, each Danubian country granting tariff preferences to the imports from each other Danubian country.

France and Britain have comparatively little trade with the Danubian countries. Danubia is Germany's natural market. A Danubian customs entente would enable Czechoslovakia to replace Germany to a certain extent as the supplier of industrial products to the Danubian agrarian countries, Jugoslavia, Roumania and Hungary, while Germany would be expected to continue to buy her full share of Danubia's surplus agrarian produce. Therefore Germany demurred.

Customs Entente Likely.

The league council has already suggested to Greece and Bulgaria that they should improve their economic relations, and barring the inclusion of Bulgaria in any eventual Danubian customs entente, it is probable that a Near Eastern customs entente including at least Bulgaria, Turkey and Greece will be suggested.

Both the British and French realize that Germany and Italy will have to make important trade sacrifices to enable the Danubian customs entente to materialize. Against this Britain and France point out that they will have to provide the cold cash to put the individual members of the union on their feet financially. But Germany has maintained that the balance of the sacrifice is against her.

The German thesis is that if her exports are thus reduced artificially, her favorable balance of trade, upon which she depends to make her external payments, will be lowered, hence her capacity to pay her foreign debts correspondingly decreased.

Monterey, New Liner, To Begin Run Thursday

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—The steamship Monterey, the second of three liners built in the East for the Oceanic Steamship Co. (Matson Line), of San Francisco, arrived here today from the yards of the Bethlehem shipbuilding plant at Quincy, Mass. She was in command of Capt. Andrew Townsend. The ship will leave on her maiden voyage next Thursday for the West Coast.

Following her arrival at California, the liner will go into the South Seas-New Zealand-Australian service, sailing from San Francisco June 3. The Monterey is a sister ship of the Mariposa. The Lurline, a third unit of the company's $25,000,000 shipbuilding program, nearing completion, will be placed in operation early next year.

MYSTERY PAIR TRY TO PURCHASE BABY

return the kidnaped Lindbergh baby yesterday took Government detectives to the records of Means' previous escapades.

The former Justice Department detective, once convicted of a prohibition conspiracy and now held on charges of defrauding Mrs. Edward B. McLean of the $100,000, spent his third day in jail, while the Justice Department continued its investigation.

Under the cloak of official secrecy, agents were said to be checking their records on Means in the hope of finding former associates who may have helped the spectacular figure in his purported negotiations with the kidnapers for Mrs. McLean.

Friends meanwhile showered congratulations on Mrs. McLean, wife of The Washington Post publisher, for going to the authorities with a strange tale of how Means took the $100,000 saying he could contact the kidnapers, and then allegedly appropriated the funds.

A Federal grand jury will report on the charge against Means tomorrow. He was accused last Thursday of larceny after trust. He is said to maintain he gave the $100,000 to some one he believed was Mrs. McLean's representative.

Justice Department agents who ransacked Means' handsome home in Chevy Chase in a vain search for the money have questioned his wife, also apparently without result. They searched safety deposit boxes in the Capital and are believed to be looking for evidence in Concord, N. C.—Means' former home—and in Aiken, S. C., and El Paso, Tex. To the last two places Mrs. McLean says Means led her on wild-goose chases to contact alleged kidnapers.

Officials hope to strengthen their case, although they are confident of indictment, by finding one or more persons they believe Means hired to pose as kidnaper representatives. They apparently believe these may include some former associate. They are looking particularly for a rough individual who Mrs. McLean says was brought to her in South Carolina, and presented as a "negotiator" for the kidnapers.

Lobbying, British Bloom, Is Flowering in America

By JOHN J. DALY

SWARMS of lobbyists scurrying around the corridors of the Capitol, like locusts on a prairie in the Midwest. This is the picture the President sees, in his mind's eye, as he describes the havoc wrought by the pestiferous creatures.

Through the practice of lobbying began in the British House of Commons, the art reached its full flower in the good old U. S. A., where lobbyists sprout thick as bumblebees around an apple blossom.

So thick are the lobbyists in the Capitol that special traffic officers are employed to keep the lanes clear. The waiting rooms on Capitol Hill are filled to overflowing with lobbyists; and the cloakroom, once set aside for the hanging of hats and wraps, and the stacking of umbrellas and canes, is now fally littered with lobbyists.

Every time a member turns around, or goes out into the committee rooms, he is liable to step on the toes of a lobbyist.

* * * *

WHEN a senator goes to lunch, like as not, a lobbyist is apt to be waiting upon him—might even hop out of the senatorial soup plate. Even the waiters, in the Senate lunchrooms, are lobbyists; lobbying for tips.

In these days of supreme lobbying, not an industry in the United States but has its lobbyist. In fact, lobbying is an industry in itself, probably the largest in the country. It certainly is the only branch of industry that has no unemployment. When one lobbyist retires, or departs for that unknown lobia, or portico, from which no lobbyist ever returns, two young and fresh lobbyists step into take his place.

There are two kinds of lobbyists, in more than one sense: Big lobbyists and little lobbyists, lobbyists who work in Washington and lobbyists who frequent the various State capitols seeking out legislators whom they may devour. There are lobbyists who urge and procure the passage of bills, and lobbyists who stem the tide of legislation, stopping the legal flood.

In this sense, there are good lobbyists and bad lobbyists—and just lobbyists.

* * * *

ONCE upon a time the lobbyists used to run to cover everytime the spotlight of publicity was turned upon them; but nowadays they gather, collectively, in the lobbies, and other parts of the legislative house, and clamor for recognition.

The dean of the lobbyists in the old days, the man they called Vestibull Rex, King of the Vestibule, or the lobby, was Dr. Robert Bruce Bradford. Patron saint of the lobbyists, when they gather in annual convention they new sing this tribute:

Of all the boys who are so smart
There's none like good old Bobby;
He was the daddy of the mart,
And he worked in our lobby.
No lobbyist in all the land
Is half so smart as Bobby;
He was the darling of the mart,
And he worked in our lobby.

MASONS' BIG WEEK BEGUN BY SERMON

Rev. Dr. Morton Is Preacher at Service in Historic Alexandria Edifice.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 323.

The first event on the week's program in Alexandria, which will reach its climax Thursday with the formal dedication of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Temple, was a special sermon in Christ Episcopal Church by the rector, the Rev. Dr. William Jackson Morton, who took as his text the twentieth chapter of Exodus, twelfth verse: "Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee."

Dr. Morton dwelt mainly upon the legacy that Mary, the mother of Washington, gave to the world in her son. The women of these days, he said, are being drawn away from the home with many outside interests, but they should realize that they can render no greater service to the world than to raise their children to be useful citizens.

Alexandria this week will see probably the greatest gathering of Masons in the history of that ancient craft. Delegations will begin to arrive early today from far distant points, one of the first being a special train bringing representatives from the grand lodge of Texas, and another from Portland, Me. There will be another from New York, and special cars from San Francisco; one from Rhode Island and another from St. Louis; one from Philiadelphia, another from Reading, Pa., one from Roanoke, Va., and another from Wytheville, Va. Today and tomorrow will see the arrival of delegations from practically every State in the Union, while many thousands will come in automobiles and on regular trains.

The R. F. & P. Railroad will operate shuttle trains between the Union Station and Seventh Street Station, in Washington, and the Union Station, in Alexandria, ever few minutes on Thursday, and expect to handle many thousands of passengers. Many residents of Washington will use these trains rather than risk possible delay in reaching Alexandria and returning to Washington, although parking arrangements have been made for the accommodation of several thousand automobiles, and roads will be kept open so that they may reach the parking spaces without interruption.

The grand lodge of Texas will meet in the new Memorial Temple at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, which is the first Masonic gathering scheduled. The grand lodge of Missouri will also meet in the Memorial.

On Thursday, in addition to the dedication of the memorial, there will be held meetings of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar, the annual meeting of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Association, which is responsible for the building of the $5,000,000 Memorial on land formerly owned by Washington, and Thursday night there will be a meeting of Alexandria-Washington Lodge, of which Washington was the first worshipful master. This will probably have the largest attendance in the history of that lodge, for it is estimated that there will be 100,000 Masons in Alexandria on that day, a large number of whom will desire to sit in the lodge once presided over by the man whom they are gathered to honor.

Masonic Memorial Parade In Alexandria Thursday

25,000 to Take Part in March to Witness Dedication of Temple in Honor of Washington; Wife's Death to Prevent Pollard's Attendance.

Alexandria will be the scene of one of the most colorful parades, starting at 9:30 Thursday morning, that the historic old city has ever witnessed, when more than 25,000 persons will march to Shooters Hill, there to witness the dedication of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Temple, a magnificent granite structure erected by the Masons of the United States at a cost of $5,000,000.

The various organizations participating in the parade will assemble on side streets. The line of march will begin at King and Fairfax streets and proceed in a straight line west to the memorial grounds, a distance of about 1 mile, and will be visible from the commanding eminence of the memorial for the entire distance.

The first of the five divisions of the parade will be preceded by a platoon of Alexandria police; the grand marshal, Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, U. S. M. C., retired, and his chief of staff, Maj. Couple Found Dead In Gas-Filled Room

Murder and Suicide Police Theory on Tragedy at Milton, Mass.

Milton, Mass., May 8 (A.P.).—A two-day-old double tragedy, apparently a murder and suicide, was discovered today by police, who found the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lewis in bed in a gas-filled chamber of their home.

Wounds in Mrs. Lewis' head, a blood-stained hammer, and two notes led police to believe Lewis had struck his wife as she lay in bed, and then opened a gas jet before lying down beside her. One note, signed "Alice," read: "My husband did not know what he was doing." Another, signed "Will," read: "What I did, I did for others and then everything was taken away from me." Police expressed the belief, however, they both were by the same hand.

Lewis, who was 63, resigned from the National Fire Insurance Co., of Hartford, Conn., April 26 after 33 years' service. Relatives could assign no motive for the tragedy, which probably occurred Friday night. Neighbors, fearing something was wrong, had summoned police.

U. S. to Get Full Control Of Wakefield on Saturday

Birthplace of Washington, Burned in 1780, Has Been Rebuilt and More Land Added by National Memorial Association.

(Associated Press.)

Wakefield, where George Washington was born, will pass officially into the complete jurisdiction of the Government next Saturday.

Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, of Cooksburg, Pa., will make the presentation for the Wakefield National Memorial Association and Secretary Wilbur of the Interior Department will accept.

The ceremony is a feature of the Bicentennial year program and President Hoover has been asked to attend.

Long forgotten, except by a few, the restoration was started by Mrs. Harry Lee Rust, sr., who organized the memorial association. She died several months ago.

The house burned in 1780 and it was 35 years later that George Washington Parke Custis, stepson of Gen. Washington, placed a stone marker over the ruined foundations. Some time after, 12 acres containing the site of the old family mansion was given the Government and a granite shaft erected.

Under the restoration plan, started in the last ten years, the old homestead has been rebuilt and an additional 382 acres of the original Washington tract acquired with funds provided by John D. Rockefeller, jr., and others. The entire area has been landscaped.

Repairs have been made to the old family vault in the burial plot, where lie buried 31 members of the Washington family, including the first President's father, grandfather and great-grandfather.

Wakefield is in the northern part of Virginia, 90 miles from Washington.

26 BELIEVED DEAD IN FRENCH SLIDES

ties showed his Radical Socialist party was winning.

Firemen were driven off to a distance, from which they shot streams of water into the smoking ruins in a desperate effort to stop the flames so rescuers could get in to the debris.

Soldiers were on hand to carry out this work.

The Caliure district is inhabited by professional and business men, whose homes and small apartments dot the steep hillsides.

The accident follows upon by less than two years similar landslides on Fourviere Hill. Approximately 100 persons were killed in those slides in November, 1930.

Today's accident was blamed, as was the previous one, on heavy rains and melting snows which had undermined the subsoil of the hilly districts.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Artificial Eyelashes, Return of Rats, New Nail Polishes Among Beauty Congress Offers.

IT has long been the contention of the male of the species that women would sooner give up eating than beautifying themselves. But the recent beauty congress held in New York City, proved to what means women will resort in order to enhance their attractiveness, what sacrifices women will make at the altar of beauty and that all the famous beauties of history put together were not nearly as "beauty conscious" as our Modern Miss or Mrs.

Elsie Pierce.

Permanent Wave Here to Stay.

The permanent wave shall not pass. Not if one is to judge by the many new machines the beauty mart offers. Which indicates, of course, that the permanent wave has taken a very strong hold and that it fills a very vital need in the life of every woman of our day.

The Eyes Have It.

Women will soon be as conscious of their eyes and hair as they are at present of their complexions. That is, if the beauty savants have anything to do with it, and we certainly suspect they have. If nature does not shape one's brows to suit, an eyebrow specialist will. Not alone that but brows can be permanently darkened, if you please, and with less penalty than the proverbially "painless dentistry." Lashes are longer, and if your own refuse to grow, a visit to the nearest (and best) beauty salon in your neighborhod will put "individuals" in place, one by one. "That ain't all!" For those who can go in for the "bizzare" and get away with it, there are colored lashes to match the gown, frankly artificial. Colored nail polishes, too, that hope to tint the nails on hands and feet this summer. Whether they will toe the mark remains to be seen.

Plastic Surgery.

Another item that proved quite a sensation was the prediction that plastic surgery will soon change the shape and type of the face, together with lifting sagging muscles and remodeling the nose.

Puffs and Pompadours.

The return of rats, puffs and pompadours in 1933 is forecast. Can you believe it? Well, style cycles have swung back farther than that to borrow from the past. Sensible creature that she is, our modern woman does try the sensational occasionally. Though fads strike her fancy (and it's good for all that ails her), it is hard to believe that she will take them seriously or permanently. The grain of salt will probably enter here. But we shall see what we shall see.

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

The elegant outfit shows many subtle colors and tones in these days (says Dah-ray).

NEW YORK, May 8.—Does the mode for this season differ from the mode of last season? Yes. Seasons mean really just two—summer and winter, you know. Of course there is spring and fall, but as far as Dame Fashion is concerned, no matter what the style industry would have us believe to the contrary, there are really only two sea? sons.

And the mode for this spring and summer differs quite a bit from that of winter. But not in line. In details. In the variety of details, in their charm and originality, and in their perfect placing—never the wrong novelty for the line or the fabric of the garment, never too many detailed!

And the mode for summer shows less of the decidedly Second Empire and Directoire influence, as though the wise style creators have decided that just enough was enough and any more would be superflous. The lines in garments remain the same as those of the past season—that is, high or normal waistlines, occasionally with a tendency to be even higher; wide shoulders and "epaules" on tailleurs and coats to widen the shoulder line; bolero of all sizes and degrees of briefness; pleats of all descriptions, and lace and organdy touches.

New is the idea of the decidedly contrasting color in the blouse of a tailored suit, or the gilet or lingerie touches of single or two-piece frocks. And while the touches of organdy and lace, the puffed short sleeves and fichus, all seem of the romantique era, the rest of the garment cut cleverly and needing the utmost skill in the manipulation of its diagonal pieces speak only in the most modern tongue.

With all this newness and variety in details which distinguish this season's mode, surprisingly enough a marked simplicity is evident in the mode of today. Just how this is achieved with the wealth of art and detail that goes into the modern woman's wardrobe—is the last and most astonishing of all the wonders!

There are different ways to chic this season! How would you like to wear a navy blue flat and crinkly crepe dress that looked like lightweight wool, such as the lovely lady is wearing that I sketch for you today? And then to have your belt and bag be dark red kid, silver buckle and buttons? And your gloves be a lighter chalky blue suede, that matched your stockings? And your shoes to match the navy blue dress? Are you following this—because it is important. The day of casually matching this and that in one ensemble is past—today a perfect ensemble is a symphony of color selections—and something utterly beyond the average woman—which means that if you study this you will be an elegante!

Well, then, and the hat and scarf are something else again—let's see, we have a navy blue dress and shoes, a lighter shade of blue, not much so, almost a chalky navy, in gloves and hose, dark red belt and bag, now what for the scarf and hat? Why, I'll just let you guess yourself, and tell you my guess tomorrow.

* * * *

Time to make yourself another pretty negligee? Or perhaps make over your ancient one into something new and chic—because the lovely design that we tell you how to make in this week's leaflet has a big sleeve-cape arrangement that could be put on any negligee and make a whole new garment of it. The sleeves hang front as sleeves, or throw over the shoulder as butterfly wing capes, you see. And you had better send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post to just see how it's made—some day you'll wish you had.

Au revoir.

The Homemaker

By NANCY CAREY

CARAMEL CARROTS ARE UNUSUAL AND DELICIOUS.

BY all the laws of the Medes and Persians we should find bits of chicken from yesterday's repast on the larder shelf this afternoon and that being the case, since probably not much is to be found there, let's make use of it in a quick and easy manner this evening. This will give us a clean slate, so to speak, for our advance column menu of today, which has to do with tomorrow's planning.

Probably the simplest use for left-over chicken is to combine it with cream sauce, so let's do just that for this evening. And with chicken a la creme may be served to advantage either canned or fresh green peas, French fried or boiled and buttered potatoes, and a salad in lieu of dessert, since this is to be a meal of quick and easy dimensions.

But for tomorrow what shall it be? Veal patties pop into my mind, somehow, veal in patties made at home or secured at the neighborhood boulangerie—as the French call their little bake houses—bake houses which are, by the way, usually tiny shops popping up unexpectedly everywhere in Paris; tiny shops crowded to overflowing with the most marvelously appetizing petit pain, croissant and and huge, long loaves of pain francaise, the French bread, familiar to us, but built twice as long and made picturesque by its frequent position atop the housewife's head or tucked, unwrapped, under her arm as she leaves her favorite boulangerie of a morning. Ah, France! How lovely she is, that country across the waters, with her leisurely hours of sunshine or her misty rain softly beating against one's face as he walks along the Seine, watching the lights of early evening play on its waters. And her tiny begardened restaurants, where one dines under the trees, whether it be dark or daylight, and her crowded corners, littered with tables and alive with chatter—chatter representing the comings and goings of strange peoples from far lands who pass as ships in the night, pausing only for a bow, a smile, a spoken word, yes, a spoken word even between strangers who may greet each other at some Paris corner table only to return at once again to the land whence they came, be it darkest African hot lands or Singapore's heterogeneous port of seething color.

But, remembering France and longing for a touch of its camaraderie, and its renignite which is its gracious kindliness (to say nothing of longings for its luscious, delicate sauces and its pastries par excellence) takes little account of our menu for today. What started all these memories, anyway? Oh, yes, a patty shell from a corner boulangerie—well, back to patty shells do we go at once, and to a veal preparation to be served in them.

TUESDAY'S DINNER.

Veal Patties
Potato Puff
Caramel Carrots
Asburton Pudding
Tea or Coffee

Veal Patties.

Have one and one-half to two pounds of veal cut from shoulder and put through grinder. Shape into patties about one-half inch thick. Melt enough lard or drippings to cover bottom of pan, heat pan thoroughly, and place patties in the hot fat. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Cook for eight minutes without turning, then turn and cook for another eight minutes. Place patties on hot platter, putting a generous piece of butter on each, sprinkle with paprika and place in a hot oven for five minutes. Serve garnished with parsley.

Potato Puffs.

To two cupfuls of cold mashed potatoes add two teaspoonfuls melted butter, beating to a white cream. Then add two eggs beaten very light, a teaspoonful of cream or milk and salt to taste. Beat well, pour into a deep baking dish and bake in a quick oven until nicely browned.

Caramel Carrots.

10 new small carrots
2 tablespoonfuls fat
2 tablespoonfuls sugar
Salt

Wash and scrape the carrots and cut in eighths lengthwise. Cook until tender. Drain. Roll in the sugar to which a few grains of salt have been added. Melt the fat in a frying pan, add the carrots and cook until slightly browned, turning so that they will be glazed all over.

Asburton Pudding.

1 cupful raisins
1 cupful suet or fat
1 cupful molasses with one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in it
1½ cupfuls flour
1½ cupfuls cake crumbs
½ teaspoonful salt

Mix flour, salt, cake crumbs and raisins together. Stir in the shortening (melted, if butter), and the molasses to which the soda has been added, and steam in a tightly covered container for three hours.

Sauce.

2 eggs
1½ cupfuls sugar
1 cupful nonalcoholic sherry flavoring
¼ pound butter
1 cupful water.

Beat the eggs and sugar together, add the butter, water and nonalcoholic sherry flavoring, and cook over hot water for about ten minutes.

THE WEIGHT GUIDE.

For individual assistance, write to Nancy Carey, sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and give age, weight, height and habits of life.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey—Have followed your reducing menus for some time and have lost fifteen pounds. I now weigh 145. I am 5 feet 5 inches tall and 24 years of age.

I do all my own work—sewing, washing, &c—and love to entertain and cook. I always manage to have a little surprise in the way of salad or dessert. My husband says I work too hard to reduce any longer. Do you think so?

BARBARA LEE.

Since you should weigh about 128 or 130 pounds, Mrs. Lee, you are not at present so very much above the average. After all, ten or fifteen pounds is not a great deal at your age. It is rather a good thing to be a little overweight until we are at least 30 years of age, for up to that time we are, as a general rule, very much more active, both mentally and physically, than in later years. When we have reached 30, we must ever be on the alert to keep our weights normal, if not a little below. There is not much danger that we will go too far below unless, of course, we are ill or so foolish as to adopt a drastic diet. To do this does not mean, necessarily, that we must constantly deny ourselves or constantly think of weight in terms of so many figures and pounds. It means just that we be sensible, never overeating and exercising moderately from day to day.

If you think you should like to lose a little of your excess weight now before it accumulates further and reducing becomes more difficult as a result, I think you may safely do so without injury to your health. We shall be very glad to send you our folder of suggestions and menus. Do not attempt to lose more than two pounds each week—eat plenty of fruits and vegetables and fewer pastries and sweets. And then, if you can find time, with all your cooking and other household duties, try to take a brisk walk out of doors each day. But let it be a brisk one, remember, not just a jaunt around the block or a leisurely trip to market. Step out, breathing deeply. Square your shoulders and swing your arms. Can't you just feel the pounds slipping away?

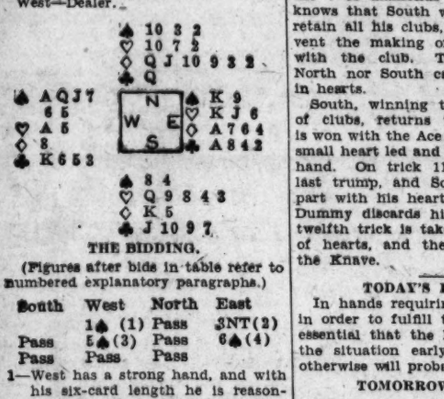
BIDDING FOR SLAMS.

AN analysis of Slams correctly bid and safely made discloses that the great majority of them are either opened with a Forcing bid of two in a suit, or a Forcing Takeout after partner has opened the bidding. There are, of course, exceptions to this rule, but the disclosure of honor strength and playing-tricks is essential to the safe bidding of a Slam.

A correctly bid Slam was pictured in Hand No. 2 in the recent World Bridge Olympic, which afforded more than 30,000 Bridge players, throughout the world, a chance to test their skill in comparison with the master Bridge players everywhere. This contest was held under the direction of the National Bridge Association. There was no particular difficulty in reaching the Slam contract on Hand No. 2, but the peculiarities of distribution were such that the Declarer was required to display to the utmost his skill in achieving, in the play, the prediction he had made in the bidding.

The hand and bidding were:

West—Dealer.



THE BIDDING.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
	1♠ (1)	Pass	3NT(2)
Pass	5♣(3)	Pass	6♠(4)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—West has a strong hand, and with his six-card length he is reasonably sure of the final declaration. However, in order to learn as much as possible by the exchange of bids at the lower ranges of bidding, his correct Opening bid is one spade.

2—Holding 2½ honor-tricks, East feels assured that the combined hands contain a game. He does not, however, hold adequate support for the spade bid, and thus discloses his honor strength by the bid of three notrump.

3—West's bid of five spades is both an invitation and a warning. It tells East that a contract of five spades should be safe, based on his three notrump bid, but not to bid the Slam unless the hand contains some feature as yet undisclosed.

4—East holds the spade King, a very important card and one that his partner can not know, from the bidding, that he holds.

The best opening against this hand is the singleton club Queen, and West finds that his work is cut out for him in making the contact. Obviously, if the clubs break 3-2 in the adverse hands, West has his contract made without a finesse, but West is not at all assured that the suit will break in this manner. East, therefore, must play the cards to provide for the contingency of a 4-1 split in the club suit.

The first trick is won with the King of clubs, and the 8 of diamonds immediately returned, which is won with the Ace in Dummy. A small diamond is led from the Dummy and ruffed in the closed hand. West next leads the Ace of spades, and follows with a small spade, in order to test out the trump distribution. Another diamond is led from the Dummy, and West then learns that North held six diamonds originally. Hence, it is extremely probable that South held four clubs and that the Queen was a singleton. The diamond is trumped, and North's last trump drawn. The Declarer next leads a club, and when North fails to follow suit, South must be permitted to win that trick. However, this is not bad news. West now knows that he can make the contract despite the unfortunate distribution. To do this he must use the squeeze play. He knows that North will be obliged to retain the high diamond, in order to shut out the 7 of diamonds in Dummy. He knows that South will be obliged to retain all his clubs, in order to prevent the making of the Slam trick with the club. Therefore, neither North nor South can retain defense in hearts.

South, winning the second round of clubs, returns that suit, which is won with the Ace in Dummy, and a small heart led and won in the closed hand. On trick 11, West leads his last trump, and South is forced to part with his heart protection when Dummy discards his last club. The twelfth trick is taken with the King of hearts, and the thirteenth with the Knave.

TODAY'S POINTER.

In hands requiring a squeeze play in order to fulfill the contract, it is essential that the Declarer recognize the situation early, as the squeeze otherwise will probably be impossible.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

What Today Means

"TAURUS."

IF May 9 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:40 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:15 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 6:45 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Astrological influences on May 9 will not be of an energizing nature, and it will be difficult to wind up the machinery for another week's work. Postponements, late afternoon hours, and unfinished tasks will characterize the day. Misadventures are augured for motorists, who are warned to take no risks and not to drive with poor brakes.

The child born on this May 9 will not have a resigned nature, and will fight for those things which make an appeal to one of its temperament. Among its character assets are pluck, initiative and far-sightedness. Its main liabilities are impatience, conceit and selfishness.

Born on May 9, you have too much individuality to ever become a standardized being—a typical person of any environment or profession. It rather pleases you to be thought eccentric, and you make it a point to stress your originality and individuality. You judge people quickly, and usually rightly, but your few violent prejudices prevent you from always being just. You have few illusions and your shrewd eyes quickly penetrate thin veneers or false pretenses. People are both hurt and amused by your ironic tongue. You generally "feel your oats," and in a dignified way are a conceited being. It hurts your pride not to be noticed, and you have many unconscious tricks which you spring in order to attract your share of attention.

There seems to be some affinity between you and the elements, and your spirits are usually stimulated by winds and storms. You are generally sleepless during moonlight nights and feel more than most people the mysterious fascination of this satellite of the earth.

While making light of small bothers, you are a fiendish fighter over real issues, and no one dare try to amirch your personal honor or reputation. You are loyal to your friends, whom you try to protect through thick and thin. Marriage does not indicate either marked happiness or unhappiness.

Successful people born on May 9:

William J. Duane, lawyer and politician.

John Brougham, actor.

Richard Barthelmess, movie actor.

Sir James Matthew Barrie, novelist.

Abby Sage Richardson, author.

Edward Weston, electrician and inventor.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES McDONALD

Restless Husbands.

DEAR Frances McDonald—I wish you would say a word sometime about these men who get married and then after a year or two, begin to talk about wanting to see the world. How is a woman supposed to take that sort of talk? I am getting sick of hearing my husband and his brother-in-law rave about the places they have never been and will die without seeing. I know it is pretty tough for those places like Siam, that will never have them as visitors. But what am I supposed to do about it? To hear them you would think their whole lives were wrecked. I have asked them what they would do when they got there and all they can do is put on their hats and go out. At first I used to feel all broken up but now I am simply disgusted.

As it is now the season for such talk and they have got off to a good start, I would like to hear from any wife who ever found a cure for this particular matrimonial joy. Right now it is being able to live somewhere in the woods, hunting and fishing, with no worry about wage-cuts and lost jobs. Are they just cuckoo? Or am I a nervous wreck to object? They got hold of a book like Robinson Crusoe only modern and they each have read it till they know it by heart. And every night for a week they have sat going over where "a fellow could find a spot like that" till I feel like telling them to go find it and not come back.

His brother-in-law is with us while he looks for work. I guess he looks all right, for he is out every day before 6. And is a nice enough fellow except for this idea of going native. However, he has got on my nerves to the limit. And my husband sits blowing smoke like a shoe factory on fire, and talking like a Boy Scout. How long would any man want to live by hunting and fishing? They eat a lemon meringue pie between them and then talk about roughing it with a knapsack and skillet. Am I just a wet blanket? Or is this a trick husbands have? Has any one survived such an attack? Would be glad to hear from any one who knows what to do to keep from throwing the china.

MINNIE-HA-HA.

Well, with a sense of humor like yours, the china will be safe. You have exactly the right dope. It is spring. At this time of year their ancestors sallied forth and brought down all sorts of things that we would not offer to the cat, but which were the delicacies of that era. No doubt some ancestor is snooping around throwing off vibrations. Or their half-tamed blood is stirring with the instincts of the forgotten. In any case it really is a harmless way for two harmless man-sized kids to while away the hours that links two hum-drum working days.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

PERENNIALS AFFORD CONTINUAL BLOOM.

PERENNIALS bloom from first to last. They achieve a great march of color. They bloom profusely and fragrantly.

The tall growers are well suited for planting among your shrubbery. The medium growers are sometimes best when planted by themselves and the dwarf varieties are usually at their best in a rock garden, where the stones protect the roots from the burning rays of the sun.

When they are planted in a level bed it is best to cultivate them, but when doing this you must merely stir the surface of the soil to avoid injuring the tender roots, which in some cases are close to the surface.

When planting perennials consider height. All plants, like hardy asters, flase dragonhead and hollyhocks, should be set in the background. The plants, which attain a height of about 2 feet, may be placed in the center and the dwarf growers are best used for the edges of the border. English primrose, arenaria, alyssum and low-growing irises are beautiful for edging large beds or borders.

From now until frost, if planted in the shade, you may expect a wealth of bloom from violas or primulas.

Peonies are surely the most spectacular of all our perennials. At this time when their buds are being formed they require a great deal of water. A spray of 1 pound of bluestone and 1 pound of lime to 50 gallons of water applied when the buds are the size of buckshot will prevent blight, and early applications of bonemeal will supply them with proper food. Wood ashes are good to use about peony plants, but you must be careful that you keep them 2 or 3 inches from the crowns of the plants.

Most perennials should be transplanted in late May or June and not as late as midsummer. Hollyhocks, delphinium and phlox should be sprayed every ten days for rust and other fungus diseases with Bordeaux mixture or one of the proprietary remedies.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

CHILDREN'S BLOOD PRESSURE.

THE blood pressure of children is considerably lower than that of adults. While the former are not supposed to have any blood pressure diseases, that may be because so few people have studied the subject and the blood pressure of children is so rarely taken by physicians or any one else. It might be that routine taking of their blood pressure might tell us a great deal that we do not suspect, just as routine taking of temperatures opened up a great storehouse of information.

The reason for the low blood pressure in children is the fact that different parts of their bodies are growing not at the same rate of speed, and that the rates of growth vary at different ages. For instance, the height is growing according to one schedule, the breadth another, the weight a third, the volume of the heart a fourth, its weight a fifth, the size of the large arteries a sixth, and that of the capillaries a seventh. All seven of these are factors in blood pressure.

Dr. H. G. Richey gives the approximate normal or, perhaps, better said, the average blood pressure at different ages of childhood as follows:

Boys, 5 years of age, about 80.
Boys, 6 years of age, about 85.
Boys, 7 years of age, about 89.
Boys, 8 years of age, about 92.
Boys, 9 years of age, about 95.
Boys, 10 years of age, a little over 95.
Boys, 11 years of age, about 96.
Boys, 12 years of age, about 98.
Boys, 13 years of age, about 101.
Boys, 14 years of age, about 106.
Boys, 15 years of age, about 110.
Boys, 16 years of age, about 112.
Boys, 17 years of age, about 112.
Boys, 18 years of age, about 113.
Boys, 19 years of age, about 117.
Girls, 5 years of age, about 85.
Girls, 6 years of age, about 86.
Girls, 7 years of age, about 89.
Girls, 8 years of age, about 92.
Girls, 9 years of age, about 93.
Girls, 10 years of age, about 96.
Girls, 11 years of age, about 100.
Girls, 12 years of age, about 102.
Girls, 13 years of age, about 103.
Girls, 14 years of age, about 104.
Girls, 15 years of age, about 106.
Girls, 16 years of age, about 107.
Girls, 17 years of age, about 103.
Girls, 18 years of age, about 101.
Girls, 19 years of age, about 105.

A careful study of the blood pressure, according to Dr. Richey, gave considerable light on the growth pattern of the child. A careful study of the young child will enable one to guess pretty well what plan of growth and maturing the child will follow.

Children that are destined to be superior will give evidence of it rather early in life. They grow faster, have more rapid development of the chest and better early development of the lungs and heart. They are left to reach the stopping point early. These observations support studies made in California and Iowa. The additional information they supply is that the rate of increase in blood gives some indication of the expected rate of growth. Dr. Richey found that in children the blood pressure varied rather widely without indicating anything was wrong.

Some additional information is gained by studying the relations of the systolic, diastolic, and pulse pressures to each other. In adults we say that fainting occurs when the systolic pressure suddenly drops to 80 or below. In the case of children we do not know at what level fainting occurs. It may be at a figure that is two-thirds of the normal for that age.

EAT IT, DON'T WEAR IT.

1. Will cocoa butter, if applied to the skin, be absorbed and thereby build up the body?

2. Is it beneficial to the skin?

3. Are the beneficial effects of sunlight upon the human body changed in any way if the sunlight passes through ordinary window glass?

REPLY.

1. Very little will be absorbed. If you take this butter by mouth one dose a year more will be absorbed than would be absorbed in a year's rubbing of the butter on the skin thrice daily.

2. It is if the skin is dry. Such rubbings help the skin of old people and all who have a tendency to fish skin or dry skin. It is needed much more in cold weather than in warm.

3. They are. Sunlight that passes through glass loses its ultra-violet.

INFECTED SINUS.

Mrs. E. G. writes: What causes a running nose? This is the second year that I have had it. Of course, it does not run in the summer months.

REPLY.

The probable cause is an infected sinus. Among other causes are hay fever and several kinds of asthma.

PUBLIC WELFARE FIRST.

The injection of politics into the problems that confront Congress has worked to the disadvantage of both parties politically, by drawing down public condemnation upon Congress for its delays in tax and economy legislation. The public condemns both parties and Congress as a whole.

Not a single political speech or political maneuver made since Congress convened has benefited the partisans who made them. Mutual recriminations and exaggerated claims of credit for the little good work already done are flouted by the public. There is so much blame that all parties get their full measure of it, and so little credit that no party gets much.

The country and the Government will suffer unless the two parties in Congress cooperate in the national interest. President Hoover has stressed this fact repeatedly, and has given the opposition party credit for whatever it has done in supporting nonpartisan general legislation. It is all the more regrettable that at this juncture there should be held a White House conference of Republicans only. The conference may have dealt with public questions without thought of partisanship, but the fact that Democrats were not present can not fail to cause adverse comment to the effect that the Republican leaders are injecting partisan considerations into the parliamentary situation.

If the White House conference had nothing to do with the nonpartisan measures now before Congress it could have been postponed to advantage. If it did deal with those measures, Democrats should have been present as equal participants in the deliberations.

On the very date of the White House Republican conference the majority report of the ways and means committee on the bonus bills was made to the House. This report was signed by Democrats as well as Republicans. It is a strictly nonpartisan and patriotic utterance, riddling the demand of bonus champions for the issuance of $2,400,000,000 of fiat "money." While it is true that the minority report favoring the bonus will be signed only by Democrats, the fact remains that both Democrats and Republicans have joined in giving the bonus mania what seems to be its death blow for this session. Both parties are entitled to credit for this courageous defense of national financial honor.

The hope of the country for prompt nonpartisan action by Congress on tax and economy measures is dampened by the spectacle of an exclusively Republican conference at the White House. An opportunity is given to the opposition to charge that moves are on foot to monopolize for the Republican party all credit for public legislation. Renewed outbursts of partisanship would merely injure the public by delaying the legislation so sorely needed.

Party politics insistently thrusts itself into this situation because of the imminence of the national conventions. Nevertheless, patriots of all parties should unite to do the work that is needed by the Nation before taking up questions of party strategy.

SOVIET TRADE COLLAPSES.

Figures released by the Department of Commerce show that "the greatest potential market in the world"—to quote Senator Borah and other sponsors of the Soviet Union—shrunk 88 per cent last year. In March, 1931, the Soviet bought goods valued at $7,631,000 from the United States, nearly as much as this country exported to the tiny Netherlands. But in March of this year exports to the Soviet had dwindled to only $936,000. Exports in January were even smaller, reaching lowest level since 1914.

At this rate Belgium is buying four times as much from the United States as is the whole of Russia. Even Colombia is a better customer than the Soviet. Just when the propagandists seeking recognition of the Bolshevist regime are pushing their campaign to save America through Soviet trade the purchases of the Moscow dictatorship all but disappear. This might be interpreted as cooperation on the part of the Soviet to demonstrate to American exporters that business will not be forthcoming without recognition. But it is more reasonable to consider it an illustration of the fact that there can be no such thing as stable trade with the red regime.

Business men can never depend upon continued trade relations with the Soviet monopoly, because its commercial policies are dictated by political considerations. Propagandists for the Soviet fail to state that the "greatest potential market in the world" is subject to complete severance on the whim of a dictator.

This is quite aside from the fact that any trade with Communist Russia is a compromise with slavery. The virtual disappearance of the Russian import market merely indicates that trade with the reds is an elusive quantity even if it were desirable.

MR. MELLON'S CONFIDENCE.

Ambassador Mellon spoke to a gathering of bankers and business men in London. If there was nothing strikingly original in his address it at least reflected the calm optimism, the confidence in this country, that was to be expected of a substantial citizen, a former Secretary of the Treasury, and the spokesman of the nation at London.

Mr. Mellon repeated the truism that it is often difficult to obtain an accurate picture on one side of the ocean of what is happening on the other. He warned his hearers against gaining the impression, from the difficulties which Congress encounters in balancing the budget, that there is a lack of will on the part of either legislators or the nation to do so, for the country has determined that the Government shall set its house in order and that the public credit shall be protected at all costs.

This is a just statement of the American position. Congress, particularly the House, has shown itself irresponsible and incompetent in handling both revenue and economy measures, but under executive pressure and the universal wave of condemnation that has come from the country at large even its recalcitrant mood is being chastened, and there is reason to believe that in the end, through Senatorial changes and conference negotiations, between the taxes fixed and economies decreed, Federal finances will be put on a sound basis.

Ambassador Mellon did not attempt to fix a time when this nation or the world would emerge from the depression. He did not even claim that the various measures inaugurated here to ameliorate the depression were cures. He praised the leadership of President Hoover and said that the President's measures will help business and banking organizations to expedite an improvement in the general situation. Such restrained comment, with its firm expression of confidence, will be appreciated in the conservative atmosphere of London.

HOSPITALS—TWO KINDS.

May 12 will be National Hospital Day, and "all good citizens" have been invited "to go to hospitals and familiarize themselves with their splendid service." President Hoover has been persuaded to endorse the occasion, and of course he is abundantly justified in lending the prestige of his name and his high position to the genuine social purposes represented in the circumstances.

But hospitals differ. Like human individuals, hospitals are of varying degrees of attraction, character and value. Some hospitals are in sober fact havens for the sick and distressed, while others are deserving of all the criticism which disgusted patients heap upon them.

As matters stand, there are but two classes of the population able to afford hospital treatment; namely, the very rich and the very poor. The former "pay until it hurts;" the latter pay not at all. The vast middle class seeks hospital service only under duress, and the ordinary professional man or woman, the ordinary clerical worker, small merchant or petty tradesman emerges from such an experience relieved of his savings and bound hand and foot in debt. For people of this kind the state and organized philanthropy have nothing but advice. The hospitals, aided both by the community and by charitable individuals of means, nevertheless treat their middle-class customers "in a business-like way" and thus, as they declare, "maintain self-respect" and "balance their budgets."

It is probably not an exaggeration to allege that the average citizen, dependent upon salary or wages, fears hospitals next to death itself. Of course, the difficulty arises from the fact that, regardless of pretensions, hospitals are and naturally must continue to be profit-making institutions. Like hotels, railroads, theaters and other commercial enterprises, they should pay for the advertising they require in their business. Their "splendid service" is sold for a price, and the price is calculated on the cost of operation and the earning capacity of the patients.

Some hospitals, it may be repeated, are exempt from just criticism. It is difficult to arouse any enthusiasm for the others. It may be suggested that next year National Hospital Day be devoted to correcting evil conditions already repeatedly indicted by leading physicians and sociologists throughout the country.

WAGE CUTS VS. IDLENESS.

Workers in the steel industry have taken another severe reduction in wages. In common with many other industries the great steel corporations have found it necessary to economize by reduction of their payrolls to avoid disastrous depletion of their working capital. Under the circumstances this action must be regarded as an essential retrenchment measure.

Before reducing wages a second time the United States Steel Corporation suspended all dividends upon its common stock. During the first quarter of this year the company sustained a loss of $13,000,000. These facts indicate that the wage reduction was decided upon only as a last resort to stop the drain upon the company's liquid resources.

The steel industry chose to reduce wages rather than dismiss a large number of employes. Since 1929 the output of the industry has been reduced by about 75 per cent. But the total number of men in the employ of the United States Steel has been cut down by only 10 per cent. A reduction of about 44 per cent in the total payroll further indicates that the corporation has chosen to spread its work among employes instead of discharging large numbers.

Many large industries have pursued the opposite course, maintaining wages and cutting off workmen to reduce their operating costs. This results in widespread unemployment for some, and for others a virtual increase in remuneration because of the sharp reduction in living costs. The maladjustments arising out of this practice have undoubtedly accentuated the depression.

In many cases labor unions are responsible for this policy. When they insist upon the maintenance of wage scales, unemployment becomes the only alternative in industries that are forced to cut down their operating expenses. Certainly it is better for all concerned to accept wage reductions than to increase unemployment in these critical times. The action of the steel industry suggests a high degree of cooperation in the interests of the general welfare.

There is no excuse for wage slashing where it can be avoided, but when an industry finds retrenchment absolutely necessary lower wages or part-time work are preferable to unemployment. Moreover, wage adjustments which tend to spread purchasing power among all the people will stimulate recovery to a greater extent than the maintenance of high wages for only a fraction of the total number of workers.

HEROIC MR. MOUSER.

What's in a name? The question is repeated with perennial frequency. And the answer invariably is: Nothing. One of the bravest officers of the American navy was one who was known as Craven. One of the most courageous members of the present House of Representatives is Congressman Mouser.

He was born in the home town of President Harding, educated at Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio State Universities, practiced law and was a city solicitor at Marion and a special assistant to State Attorney General Edward C. Turner and to his successor, Gilbert Bettman. In this post Mr. Mouser achieved a fine reputation, and his neighbors had the genius to send him to Washington. Arriving in the Capital at the beginning of the 71st Congress, he did not presume to set the Potomac afire; quietly and modestly he was content to be merely a dutiful representative of the farmers and Main Streeters who had trusted him. He has gone about the business of his constituents in an inconspicuous manner and never thought about trying to make the front pages of the newspapers.

But he deserves to be famous. He has courage far beyond the misleading implication of his appellation. He recently performed a feat of the very highest intrepidity. He actually rose in his place in the House and proposed that Congressmen economize by striking their idle relatives from the clerk hire payroll. Of course, he was howled down by his loving confreres. That was logical in the circumstances. Like Leonidas at Thermopylae and David Crockett at the Alamo, he fought a hopeless fight. But that fact merely emphasizes the magnitude of his daring and is proof of his patriotism, his honor, and his common sense. He merits the grateful salutation of a sorely burdened people.

In view of Ogden Mills' success in ramming a respectable tax bill down the throat of the Senate finance committee, President Hoover ought to turn him loose in the House with an economy program.

The advocates of a tax on beer as a solution for the depression have never stopped to calculate the slump that such action would produce in the lobby industry.

It looks as if the bonus fiasco were all over but the snarling.

MODERN MAGIC

From the Atlanta Constitution.

Orchids plucked in their native heath in the jungles of South America and gracing the corsage of milady of North America two days later; bananas ripened on the trees in Brazil or Nicaragua on breakfast tables in New York, Chicago and Seattle; perishable foods, fruits and flowers of all kinds from the gardens of North America for the banquets of Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro, while nature's freshness is still upon them—these are some of the promises held out through the installation of an "aerial express" service by the great air lines now plying between the Americas.

The list of the merchandise already carried, according to the New York Herald, "includes cargo as varied as the 'ivory, apes and peacocks' that the Tyrian galleys brought to King Solomon of old."

But what a far cry it is from the two to four days now required to traverse the thousands of miles between the great metropolises of North and South America and the equal number of months that lumbering galleons took to go from one end of the Mediterranean to the other in olden days.

Now a physician can bring a patient from the Argentine to the great medical centers of the United States in scarcely more time than the trip from even a nearby point in the United States would have taken only a comparatively few years ago—or a business or financial expert from New York can bring vital counsel to Brazil, Chile or Peru in the span of a day or so.

Relations between North and South America are already being revolutionized by the development of air mail and passenger service, and commerce and industry in both countries is destined to be vastly profited as the intimacy of contact increases.

Especially will the southeastern section of the United States benefit from this development of intercontinental air travel and transportation. All ships carrying either passengers, mail or express intended for cities of all of the States east of the Mississippi River must come via the airports of Florida, Georgia and the Carolinas, and Southern cities will profit accordingly.

POST HASTE

Congress is the only place where individuals are allowed to put such unrestrained emphasis upon their own estimate of their importance.

Mr. Rainey mustn't worry. The intelligent American public is not fooled by the attempts to classify reconstruction loans with efforts to distribute gifts of fiat money.

Only a Senate gesture is lacking now to make Huey Long official jester as the successor to Tom Heflin.

New England is to see a total eclipse in August, but there is so little doubt as to which sun will be affected that interest in the event is overshadowed by concern over which Democratic sons will be eclipsed in June.

Representative Patman will try to keep Congress in session all summer if it doesn't pass the bonus. This is the most dangerous trading material we have heard yet.

Mr. Coolidge will not go to Chicago. His latest picture shows that he has other fish to fry.

From the fate of Economic at Churchill Downs you might have thought he was running in a congressional race.

Members of the House resent being scolded by the President. They find, however, that they can't invoke the Napoleonic code principle of "the greater the truth the greater the libel."

Platform drafters for the Chicago conventions are said to be already at work formulating clever planks which they doubtless hope will "grow to what they seem."

Yes, Archibald, the Arthur Brisbane who says the Government could print two billions for the bonus without injuring U. S. money is the same financial expert who predicted a few months ago that silver would go to a dollar an ounce.

After all, Saturday's greatest spectacle was not that one horse beat nineteen others by five lengths, but that 40,000 people at Louisville and 'steen millions throughout the world could get so excited about that two-minute event.

It has been figured out that American motorists lose about 30 years every day waiting on red lights. Add the time waiting for elevators and there's hardly any left.

Outstanding among today's worries is how outstanding radio announcers and current writers could ever have made outstanding facts stand out without that overworked word.

If the Roosevelt procession has been stopped the opposition parade is still around the corner.

The bonus blockade appears to have inflation punctured beyond bonus bloc aid.

COUNSEL TO CALLERS.

In times like these a caller should
Observe the blossoms here and there,
And search his little neighborhood
For objects bright and fair.

Who taps upon another's door
And would a hearty welcome win
Should come with cheer and comfort, or
'Twere better that he not go in.

The need is now for faith and strength;
So much there is of fear and doubt,
That he who walks a full mile's length
Should seek some charm to tell about.

Crushed by the tyranny of fear,
The quivering souls of men await
The friend who has a word of cheer.
God grant he come ere it's too late.

A Reasoning Creature Communes With the Power That Created Him.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

"I AM your creature. You made me.

"You made me a reasoning creature, and my reason tells me that in some way beyond human understanding the earth was created out of nothingness by a power infinitely great.

"I see the movement of the stars and the birth of new life on the earth, and I observe that rain and snow and insects and blades of grass serve their useful purpose in some mysterious plan, and my reason tells me that the universe still is ruled by the power that created it.

"I say to myself: 'If the artist creates a thing of beauty, whether a painting or a vase or a poem or a figure carved from marble, he has delight in it and loves it. Something of himself is in his work—his sense of beauty, his personality, his intelligence and his spirit. He treasures it and cherishes it because he made it.'

"Then my reason says to me: 'So the power that created you must feel. You also are cherished and loved by your creator.'

"I know it is true and I am comforted.

"I am your creature. You made me. You will not forget me nor turn your face away from me.

"Sometimes I forget. When my follies and the follies of others have brought me suffering, I blame you for it and wonder why you have deserted me.

"But I know that is unfair. I know you wish me well, as I would a creature of mine. I know that all things work together for my good, if I do my part, and I know you did your part when you gave man the intelligence to shield himself from the things that are harmful—the heat and the cold and the things that are poison to him but useful and necessary in their place.

"Because I am your creature I know that I also serve some useful purpose in the scheme of the universe.

"I will serve as best I know how. I will be content in the knowledge of your love.

"I understand little, and at times I am afraid; but in my heart I know that all is well, for all of your plans are wise and good.

"Whatever life may do to me, I will keep my trust in you; for I am your creature and you will care for me until your plans are finished."

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

No Cut for Congress.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

Representative Fiorella LaGuardia, champion of "the common people," rushes to the defense of the Congressional pay envelope. According to the New York Congressman, the National legislators need all of their $10,000 a year salary, and no doubt all of their costly perquisities, to maintain themselves.

This emphasizes again the unwillingness of Congress to do its part in the matter of Governmental economy. In fact, every move to scale down the salaries of senators and representatives has been obstructed. A House committee put the quietus on such a proposal and a Senate subcommittee pigeonholed a Congressional pay-cut plan while reporting out a scheme for reducing the pay of the already poorly paid Federal employes.

The 11 per cent wage cut adopted by the House and applicable to Federal employes receiving more than $2,500 a year does not apply to Congressmen. That reduction is predicated on the fact that the cost of living has been reduced at least 11 per cent. Why then exempt the $10,000 a year Senators and Representatives and the $15,000 a year Speaker of the House and Vice President? Why begin at the bottom instead of the top?

If the Federal employes can stand an 11 per cent cut because of an 11 per cent reduction in the cost of living, then the National legislators are receiving an 11 per cent increase in their pay if their salaries are unchanged. In other words, by refusing to vote on the question, Congress has voted itself a "raise."

Al Smith says a political platform should be so simple that the man in the street can read it and understand it in a few minutes. Another great advantage of such a platform is that the candidate also might be able to understand it.

Hoover Chooses Curtis.

Houston Post.

When Vice President Curtis some time ago decided to become a receptive candidate for renomination, in preference to seeking a seat in the Senate from Kansas, it was presumed that Mr. Hoover had intimated that Mr. Curtis would be acceptable to him as a running mate again.

The announcement by Secretary of War Hurley that he is not a candidate and his appeal to the Oklahoma delegation to the Republican convention to support Mr. Curtis amounts to a statement by the President that the administration desires the Vice President's renomination. That being the case, the renomination of Mr. Curtis is as good as accomplished. He is just about as sure to be on the G. O. P. ticket as is Mr. Hoover.

Pension Grab Halted.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Mr. Hoover acted wisely and boldly in vetoing the omnibus bill comprising a group of new pensions and increases in old pensions of war veterans. No lengthy message was necessary to make clear the reasons for his veto. Mr. Hoover needed only to cite a few of the cases, which included men guilty of desertion and dishonorably discharged, men injured while intoxicated malingerers, self-inflicted wound cases—and all now attempting to get money from the Government. Pensions are intended as rewards for services rendered the country in time of war, but such records as these were hindrances rather than services.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Virginia Democrat Indicts Senate for Its Action in the George Otis Smith Case.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: With your timely editorial, "The Senate's Setback," relating to the decision of the Supreme Court in the George Otis Smith case, every American citizen who is not a politician by profession will heartily agree. Unfortunately, however, the public is already the loser, as you say, because the fees of the high-priced lawyer will have to be paid by the already heavily overburdened taxpayers, the rank and file of whom knew all along that there was absolutely no semblance of justice in the Senate's contention in this matter and that the court proceedings were merely the result of grudges of a few senators who felt that their own vanity was superior to the law and orderly government procedure.

The pity of it all is that the expense can not be assessed against and collected from those few individuals who were responsible for this baby show.

Those senators who were responsible for the whole fiasco must have known from the beginning, just as every country and cross-roads lawyer knew, that there was absolutely no doubt as to what the decision of the courts would be. It is therefore reasonable to expect a repetition of this foolish gesture.

VIRGINIA DEMOCRAT.

Many Arguments Advanced in Favor of the Metric System.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Referring to the report relative to the shrinking of the standards of weights and measures used in the United States and England, is it not time that these inaccurate, cumbersome, out-of-date measures and the systems that go with them be laid aside, and the metric system used in all the rest of the civilized world, substituted in their stead?

Arguments favoring this change are that the metric system is a decimal system throughout; that in commercial work for amounts greater or less than the unit concerned the decimal system is often employed; that for reports and statistics nearly 10 per cent of the time and expense is used in reducing fractional English weights and measures to tabular form; that an equal proportion of time in the education of every child is wasted in the same way; that all commercial and educational organizations in the United States have long been ready for this change, as shown in the early years of our present century when a bill was introduced in Congress for the adoption of the metric system for all weights and measures in this country; and, moreover, that this bill would have become a law had it not been for a small group of elderly employees in one of the Federal departments who used their influence among their senators to defeat this bill, and that such opposition is now automatically removed by the retirement of this class of employes.

W. F. FLETCHER.

Mr. Simpson Discusses Plight of Federal Workers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A Washington paper, in a copyrighted article, publishes the views of the chief of the United States Bureau of Efficiency relative to the servants of Uncle Sam. An assortment of human beings, cogs of the machinery that propels the ship of state, have been bunched and classified according to their weight, complexion and the amount of applesauce they consume, and thus rated as to their worth in an official capacity.

The House of Representatives has been struggling with an economy proposition that involves the salaries paid Government workers with the idea of reducing all salaries over $2,500 by 11 per cent. Any person acquainted with conditions as they exist at present will agree that worthwhile reductions can be made in the amount spent without injustice to so many as would result by this horizontal reduction.

Employes who receive more than $2,500 can afford to stand a temporary reduction until matters have been thoroughly considered and adjusted. Some paid less than $2,500 could be reduced and many paid over that amount should be. But for pity's sake do the matter right.

Veteran Iowa Farmer Says Farmers Should Send Farmers to Congress.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I read with interest an editorial in a recent issue of The Post. In it you say, "Politicians should do something for the farmer." My thought is that the farmer should do something for himself. The farmers have the votes, with those of labor, to control Congress and yet they elected 338 attorneys and only 16 farmers to the present Congress.

I am an old Iowa farmer. My first visit to Washington was 68 years ago. I was a guard at the White House, and met President Lincoln a number of times.

Mr. Dunn Says Municipal Building Work Should Be Started.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I read in the papers that there is $1,600,000 available to start the Municipal Building in the District. I suggest that they use that money to begin the work. Start plowing up the ground with plows and tractors. Use the city trucks and wagons. Put men to work filling up the trucks. Put on four shifts of men, six hours' work. Pay them $5 a day. Five hundred men in a shift. Have a store on the job to furnish working material for the men. Let the District finance a loan to complete the job.

ENGINEERS OF FILM WORLD MEET TODAY

Problems of Designing Talking Pictures for Home, Office and School Topic.

The problems of designing talking motion picture equipment for home, office and school use will be featured at the opening session today of the Society Motion Picture Engineers meeting at Wardman Park Hotel. Representative Sol Bloom, associate director of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, will deliver the address of welcome. Dr. A. N. Goldsmith, vice president and chief engineer of the Radio Corporation of America and president of the society, will respond.

A demonstration equipment for talking pictures in the home will be supervised by H. G. Tasker and A. W. Carpenter, of the United Research Corporation, Long Island, N. Y. H. Pfannenstiehl and R. A. Miller, of the Bell Telephone Labratories in New York, will demonstrate a new type sound picture projector which utilizes a sound-on-disc system for school rooms. A paper, "16 mm. Sound on Film Projector" will be read by H. C. Holden, of the RCA-Victor Co. at Camden., N. J.

Another feature of the program today will be a discussion by Lieut. Charles E. Fraser, of the United States Naval Research, Navy Yard, Brooklyn, N. Y., of how the United States makes use of talking pictures. S. K. Wolf and J. E. Tweedale, of the Electrical Research products of New York, will discuss theater noise problems.

A new microphone, carried on the lapel of each speaker at the convention for amplification, will be introduced by W. C. Jones and D. T. Bell, of the Bell Laboratories.

Approximately 500 engineers are expected to attend the meeting.

HURLEY PAYS WARM TRIBUTE TO MOTHERS

that I am, all that I ever hope to be, I owe to my sainted mother." He referred to the Washington Monument and to the Lincoln Memorial as memorials not only to Washington and Lincoln, but to all mothers.

Mrs. John D. Sherman, a member of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, who has the distinction of being the first woman to speak in the great choir and sanctuary of Washington Cathedral, told the story of Mary Ball Washington, the mother of George Washington, at the Mother's Day festival service yesterday afternoon.

Several hundred American war mothers and representatives of a number of women's organizations took part in the service, which was sponsored by the Bicentennial Commission and the Washington Federation of Churches.

Welfare of Home Vital.

Bishop James E. Freeman, who delivered the sermon, declared that "in the midst of a world of confusion and lack of leadership in State and Federal governments that the welfare of the American home is the primary thing of the Nation."

"When a nation loses esteem for the home its decline is inevitable," he said. "Our national ideals are not made in halls of legislation, they are generated in the home itself and nowhere else. The mothers of America have in their hands the destiny of the republic."

Assisting in the cathedral Mother's Day service were the Rev. G. Freeland Peter, canon and chancellor of Washington; Canon Raymond L. Wolven, chaplain to Bishop Freeman, and Canon John W. Gummere.

Rabbi Louis Simon read the Old Testament lesson and the New Testament lesson was read by the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the House of Representatives. The Rev. Dr. ZeBarney T. Phillips, rector of the Church of the Epiphany and chaplain of the Senate, read prayers and other portions of the service.

Nameless Mother Is Honored.

The green hills of Arlington cemetery were the scene of another Mother's Day ceremony during the morning when a white birch was planted in honor of the Mother of the Unknown Soldier, under the auspices of the Henry C. Spengler unit of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Mme. Schumann-Heink sang praises to the Nameless Mother, while Assistant Secretary of War Frederick H. Payne made the dedicatory address. The "Mother's Tree Spade" of the American Forestry Association, was used to turn the earth. This spade was used in the planting of the first tree to honor Motherhood at Reading, Pa., in 1923. The spade will be used in Reading, England, next year in the planting of a tree in honor of the mothers of England.

In his address Assistant Secretary Payne said: "We have offered this tree to the memory of the mother who gave to the Unknown Soldier life and strength, courage and love of country. But more than this, just as the marble monument to the Unknown Soldier stands also for the patriotism and fortitude of American manhood, so does this tree stand for the courage and idealism of all American motherhood."

Kallipolis Grotto and the Grand Lodge of Masons conducted a Mother's Day service in the Sylvan Theater yesterday morning. Dr. Joseph Sizoo preached the sermon. He was assisted in the service by the Rev. William Abernethy and the Rev. Hugh Stevenson.

The West Virginia Society of the District was the sponsor of a Mother's Day service at the Calvary Baptist Church last night.

2 Injured as Pair Raids Night Club

Alleged Bandits Captured in Greenwich Village Riotous Holdup.

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—A riotous holdup in a Greenwich Village night club early today ended in the serious wounding of one victim, injury to two waiters and two policemen, and the capture of the two alleged bandits.

The 150 patrons of the place were lined up against a wall and commanded at revolver point to toss their money and jewels onto the dance floor. W. Wilson Tyrrell, 25, refused. One of the gunmen stepped up to him, witnesses told police, and placing a revolver close to his forehead, fired.

As Tyrrell dropped, a waiter ran toward the door. One of the robbers felled him with a bottle. Another waiter dived doorward and wag knocked down. A radio-equipped police car arrived just in time to greet the gunmen as they ran out. Both sides exchanged volleys, scoring no hits. A policeman grappled with one of the fugitives, finally subduing him, and a wandering newspaper reporter blocked the other's flight.

The prisoners described themselves as Charles Rezoagali, 19, and John Martine, 40. They were charged with assault and robbery.

NEW YORK CLUB HITS OFFICIALS' INCOMES

Demand Made That Swollen Fortunes Bared in Quiz Be Explained.

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—The City Club demanded in a public letter today that the income of seven city and county officials, aggregating $1,500,000, as revealed in the Hofstadter legislative investigation, be explained at once.

The club based its demand upon Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's statement in dismissing Thomas M. Farley as sheriff of New York County last February. The governor then said the public was entitled to know the sources of income of officials in excess of their salaries. Sheriff Farley's salary was $15,000 a year. His bank deposits in five years were shown to have been $360,000.

In its communication the City Club named Peter J. Curran, undersheriff, whose salary was $7,500 and whose deposits were given by Samuel Seabury's investigators as $662,311.11. In the seven cases the deposits covered the years 1925 to 1931, inclusive. The others cited were:

Joseph Flaherty, assistant deputy sheriff, $2,700 a year; deposits, $20,890.55.

Michael J. Cruise, city clerk, $12,000; deposits, $142,800.36.

James J. McCormick, deputy clerk of the Board of Aldermen, gross income from the city, $96,000; deposits, $229,499.14.

Thomas J. Kelly, deputy chief inspector police department, $6,300 a year; deposits, $70,153.79.

Edward P. Sherry, city court attendant, $3,720 (maximum); deposits, $156,669.72.

John Theofel, chief clerk of the Queen's surrogate court, $6,000; deposits, $201,000.

"The retention by public officers of subordinates who cannot explain their sources of income," the City Club's letter added, "is an amazing example of cynical effrontery."

Women's Peace League Plans Good-Will Day

Plans for a Nation-wide observance of May 18, World Goodwill Day, were announced today by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. The day will be observed by disarmament demonstrations and mass meetings over the country, directed toward the Geneva disarmament conference.

May 18 is the thirty-third anniversary of the first Hague peace conference.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THERE has been a wide diversity of opinion among those who have seen it, and a vast amount of conjecture among those who have not, as to who among the stars of "Grand Hotel" might "steal the show."

It is my purely personal view that nobody steals it, as a matter of fact. While none of the group comprised of Greta Garbo, Lionel Barrymore, Wallace Beery, John Barrymore, Lewis S. Stone, Joan Crawford, Jean Hersholt, Tully Marshall, Purnell Pratt, Robert McWade, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Rafaella Ottiano and all the rest, contributes a performance that by any abortive judgment could possibly be looked upon as mediocre, four of them offer character portrayals that are no less than extraordinary in the fidelity with which they bring to life the figures created between the covers of her book by Vicki Baum.

Considered from the standpoint of production, cast, direction, photography, story interest and whatnot, "Grand Hotel" is a picture in a million—maybe two million!

Ruth Chatterton has come into a picture in "The Rich Are Always With Us," too. For the first time since the mind of man runneth not to the contrary, Miss Chatterton is permitted to reveal something of the brilliant qualifications for stardom that years ago attracted that astute producer and splendid actor, Henry Miller, to her as one of the stage's most generously endowed young actresses.

Apart from her delightful visualization of the character of Caroline, at the Earle, Miss Chatterton is putting on a bit of a style show. Her costumes, I take it, represent the last word in the Parisian mode of the moment. And are some of them daring? Well, perhaps, just the least little bit—I don't get around so much.

It is said in a moment of spoofing, of course, but just the same the statement made by George Brent to Miss Chatterton in "The Rich Are Always With Us" that his mother was a radio announcer just before the Spanish-American War, falls upon the casual ear as a little more anachronistic than witty. Probably he meant that his mother was making those funny old cylindrical records for the late Mr. Edison's early model talking machines.

Reverting briefly to "Grand Hotel," the box-office sale for the reserved seat engagement beginning next Friday opens this morning.

Roscoe Drissel, manager of Loew's Columbia, has installed a special office in the lobby of the theater, where an extra staff of experienced box-office men will preside over the sale.

Matinee prices are 50 cents and $1; nights, 50 cents, $1 and $1.50. Both mail and phone orders are being accepted and filled in the order of their receipt.

And speaking of prices, when Loew's Palace abandons its stage shows and adopts a straight sound-screen policy next Friday, a revision of admission charges will go into effect.

On week days, from 11 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., general admission will be 35 cents; boxes and loges, 50 cents. From 5:30 to closing, general admission will be 50 cents; boxes and loges, 70 cents; children, 35 cents.

Night prices will prevail on Sundays and holidays.

Since we seem to be conducting an information bureau this morning, following the "road show" reserved seat engagement of "Grand Hotel," new prices also will be instituted at Loew's Columbia Theater.

The Friars' Frolic, to be presented here at the Washington Auditorium for one performance only, Thursday night, May 19, had its premiere in New York last night in the Metropolitan Opera House. George M. Cohen, Leslie Howard, Sam H. Harris, Lynne Overman and a good many other stars who were available for the New York frolic will not be seen in Washington, but enough of the stellar galaxy will be on hand, at that, to give promise of one of the most thoroughly diverting entertainments of the year.

Harry Richmond, late star of the "Follies," is doing the best job of any of them as guest star of that chaste but sunburned Sabbath evening Java hour on the radio. His singing voice comes into the loud speaker like a million dollars, where Chevalier's came in like a dime, and his jests are no more remotely antediluvian than Eddie Cantor's or Georgie Jessel's. Many of his wheezes get by, no doubt, because there are so few people now living old enough to remember them!

If you care for Harrys, in that extremely amusing short-reel comedy, "Twenty Horses," in which Ford Sterling and Aileen Cook are rolling them up and down the aisles at the Earle, is one Harry Short, playing the bit part of a toiler on the city thoroughfares, who is much impressed by what he overhears.

This is the first time, to the best of my knowledge, that Harry has been about for a long, long time. Back in 1923, when Dorothy Mackaill, recently here at the Rialto in person, was just beginning to attract attention, Harry Short played one of the leads in Edwin Carewe's production of "Mighty Lak' a Rose," the first important picture in which Dorothy ever appeared.

Come Friday, John Barrymore will be more or less prevalent on the downtown, first-run screens of the National Capital. He will be seen opposite Greta Garbo in "Grand Hotel," at the Columbia, and will also occupy the screen at RKO-Keith's in "State's Attorney," described as one of the outstanding pictures of the year and one of the most effective the junior Barrymore ever has done.

And that reminds me. With "State's Attorney" presumably filling the pews of RKO'S Fifteenth street salon of the celluloids, another feature with a legal background will come into the Earle, with Warren William appearing in the title role of "The Mouthpiece."

In case you don't get around much among the gangsters, "the mouthpiece" is the name assigned by their picturesque and expressive argot to the lawyer hired to "spring" such of their number as fall into the clutches of the law. Yeah, just as they dub the doctor hired to tend their ill and wounded "the croaker." Playful lads!

It's Baseball Night at Loew's Palace tonight and Palace Day at Mr. Griffith's ballyard this morning—or something.

Frank De Haney, former International League catcher, and "Slim" Timblin, former Southern Leaguer, both appearing on the Palace stage this week, and both friends of Heinie Manush and Al Schacht, are taking the Chester Hale "Privolickers" out to the Griffith Stadium this morning, although last night nobody seemed to know whether the main idea was for the Nationals to teach the girls how to beat out a slow one or for the girls to teach the horsehiders the intricacies of their dance routines! Perhaps both, so if, with two out and the bases loaded, the Nats suddenly go into their dance, don't say I didn't tell you!

Tonight the Senators and the Cleveland Indians will be guests of the "Privolities" unit to enjoy both the stage show and "Sky Bride" on the screen.

Four more days to Wesley Eddy!

Ring and Watch Worth $500 Stolen.

Mrs. Rebecca Hunt, of New York, a guest at the Hamilton Hotel, reported to police yesterday that her room had been entered and a diamond ring and a wrist watch, valued at $500, were stolen.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

HAVE you encounteed any of the "stop-light" salesmen? A New York radio dealer has his car equipped with a radio set. He pulls up alongside another car at the street intersection red light.

The other driver hears the music and invariably asks "What kind of set is that?" The radio dealer—just waiting for this opportunity—edges to a window, leans out, passes a circular and business card. "Read this when you get home," he requests. "Tells all about the (here he names make of set). We sell 'em, install 'em and guarantee 'em. * * * Call me up when you want one."

Lights change. The two cars plunge ahead, separate in heavy New York traffic.

Do prospects so contacted, then released without any attempt to high-pressure, ever come back?

"They do in the auto-radio business," is the reply of this salesman. "Forty-seven encountered in just this way later brought their cars for installations. 'Curbside' selling, as practiced in these cases, has proved itself to be completely practical."

MRS. Lenore Romney, a graduate of the University of Utah, of George Washington University, the American Laboratory School of the Theater and of the School of Stanislavsky, who has had a year's experience at the studios of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in Hollywood, will inaugurate a series of poetry programs over station WRC at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon.

This type of program, which Mrs. Romney is well equipped to present, should find appreciation among Washington listeners.

Excerpts from the works of popular romantic composers have been chosen by Howard Barlow for the symphony orchestra program (WMAL, 10 o'clock) tonight. The concert will open with the finale from Beethoven's Fourth Symphony. Then follow "En Bateau," Debussy; "Oriental Dance" from Delibes' "Lakme," Tschaikosky's Andante Cantabile and the overture to Massenet's opera, "Phedre."

AS an indication of the sentiment in the Army toward Mother's Day, Capt. William J. Stannard, leader of the Army Band, in a special musical program dedicated to the day read the following message of instructions issued to commanding officers of all posts, camps and stations within the territorial limits of the Corps Area:

"It is the desire of the Commanding General that each officer, warrant officer and enlisted man, write a letter to his home on Mother's Day as an expression of the love and reverence we owe to the mothers of our country. By command of Maj. Gen. Malone. Signed: J. T. Conrad, Colonel, Adjutant General's Department, Adjutant General."

A feature of the program was the singing of "Little Mother of Mine" by Stanley Bell, the radio announcer. Mr. Bell was accompanied by the Army Band.

If Seth Parker suddenly develops a nautical twang and begins exclaiming "blow me down," his shipmates won't be surprised. Phillips Lord, who created the character and plays the role, is spending most of his time aboard his new yacht cruising off Long Island. The new craft, much larger than his other, bears the familiar name—"Seth Parker"—which brought Lord fame.

THE world's most famouse horse race, the English Derby, will be described over NBC networks when it is run at Epsom Downs on June 1 * * * Grace Moore, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, has indefinitely postponed her sailing for Europe in order that she may continue her guest appearances on the Goodyear program, alternating with Grace Hayes and Helen Morgan * * * Edward A. Filene, nationally known Boston department store merchant, will speak on "The Consumer's Dollar" (WRC, 12:15 p. m., Wednesday). * * * Earle Sande, the jockey, will be interviewed by Grantland Rice (WRC, 9 p. m., Wednesday). * * * Mme. Nina Koshetz, Russian prima donna, will begin a series of four Wednesday night song recitals this week (WRC, 9:30 o'clock). * * * Lanny Ross, popular radio tenor, will be interviewed by Bob Taplinger during the "Meet the Artist" period tomorrow (WMAL, 4:15 p. m.). * * * Blossom Seeley and Benny Fields will make their debut in their own program over the WEAF network today, 6:30 p. m., but will not be heard locally. * * * Alex Gray will revive "You Will Remember Vienna" from his musical photoplay, "Viennese Nights," when he sings with Nat Shilkret's Orchestra tomorrow night (WMAL, 9:30 o'clock).

When Mrs. J. H. McDermott and May Libbey go on the air from WOL on Wednesday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock for their regular children's period, which they conduct jointly, they will present a new playlet written by Mrs. McDermott.

RACING fans are still giving Station WMAL a deserved raking over the coals for the rude interruption of the description of the running of the Kentucky Derby just as the race was about to start. It is true that Station WMAL had set aside a full hour of its time for a description of the race—an hour which was filled with reptition—for which Ted Husing and his coannouncer could hardly be harshly judged, since talking for one hour straight on the subject of one race is no easy task—but that hardly lets the station out when three minutes more would have seen the desciption finished.

When Station WRC learned that WMAL had not been able to complete the description of the Derby, it made an attempt to cut in the other network, but the race was finished before WRC could get it on the air.

It is hoped that Station WMAL will see the light one of these days and finish a broadcast once it is started.

The time of "Current Questions Before Congress," WMAL'S series of weekly broadcasts alternately featuring Senators Capper and Dill, has been changed to 12 noon instead of 12:30 a. m. each Tuesday in order to obtain a wider hook-up of stations on stations on the Pacific Coast.

Phelps H. Adams, chief of the Washington Bureau of the New York Sun, will be the principal speaker on the Back of the News in Washington program tomorrow (WRC, 5:45 p. m.).

Senator Peter Norbeck, of South Dakota, chairman of the Senate finance committee, will talk on "Investigation of the New York Stock Market and Its Operations" tonight (WRC, 9 o'clock), in the National Radio Forum.

The State of Maryland will be honored during the Parade of the States program tonight (WRC, 8:30 o'clock). Yvonne D'Arle, soprano, and Phil Dewey, barytone, will be guest soloists, singing a medley of popular Maryland songs, and a group of gems from "My Maryland," the light opera based on "Ships in Harbor," a song of the clipper days, when Baltimore ranked among the first ports of the Atlantic seaboard, and the songs of Annapolis.

A TELEPHONE CALL is a sure cure for those waiting-room blues. Instead of a trip down and back to find your man isn't available, a telephone call does the trick in a few seconds. Telephone service is necessary in these hurried days. And the cost is way down—within reach of the scantiest-lined purse.

BERG'S SINGLE DEFEATS CHISOX, 6-5, IN FOURTEENTH

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE fans didn't lose count in that fourteen-inning ball game at Griffith Stadium yesterday. They stood up in the Nats' half of both the seventh and fourteenth innings. It seemed almost like a double-header.

Mr. Moe Merg, the distinguished linguist, said it in a language that was understandable to all when he larruped the single over third base that won the ball game.

It wasn't Berg's fault that his single in the twelfth didn't bring the game to a successful conclusion. Moe lined a pitch over second base that Appling held to a single only by a masterful stop that forced Manush to halt at third with the potential winning run.

The stylish stout gentleman in right field was Bob Fothergill, as easy to step over as he is to walk around, but a man whom the pitchers respect profoundly when he is waving his bat at the plate.

The word seems to have gone out that the safest procedure for pitching to Carl Reynolds is the slow ball. Lyons was using his change of pace exclusively whenever Reynolds appeared at bat.

Spencer had the honor of driving in the Nats' run in the second inning, but it was a dubious distinction, the result of the catcher hitting into a fast double play.

Joe Judge looked bad on two strikes Lyons threw by him in the second inning, but he looked great on the third one, which he rammed to left field for a double.

Sammy West contributed a bit of grand larceny on both Carey Selph and Carl Reynolds in the third. West went far into right field to take Selph's liner, which Reynolds confidently expected to catch.

The Nats were using a fine system in amassing their three-run lead in the first two innings. Each tally scored on an infield out.

The wind robbed Heinie Manush of a home run into right field in the fifth and what Heinie appeared to say when Dineen called him out on a doubtful third strike this family newspaper is not printing.

Joe Judge was Lu Blue's personal infielder during the first three innings. Judge disposed of Blue unassisted in both the second and fourth and then added insult to the injury to Blue's batting average by fielding his grounder in the sixth and turning it into a double play.

The bases were full when Judge made his copyrighted stop and throw from an awkward position to start and finish the double play that retired the White Sox in the sixth. Hank Shanks, coach of the Cleveland Indians, who was sitting in the press box, remarked that Judge outs off more runs than any other first baseman drives in.

Of course, Judge was first at bat in the Nats' half of the sixth after making his brilliant play. The fielding hero is always first up when he comes in off the diamond.

Sam Rice is due for a homer on the progressive theory of pinch hitting after his triple in the sixth yesterday. His previous pinch hitting effort was a double.

Bluege's stop and throw on Selph's steaming grounder in the seventh inning is the reason why he can hit only .200 and still hold his place in the line-up.

Buddy Myer went hitless until the ninth inning, but all was forgiven when his clean single to center brought Dave Harris home from second with the run that tied the game and gave the Nats a new lease on life.

Ted Lyons outlasted Marberry, Burke and Fischer, but it was asking too much of the White Sox pitcher with a sore arm when Johnson sent in the fresh Ragland to give battle in the thirteenth. It looked as if the Nats' pitchers were running a relay race against Lyons, who was playing a lone hand.

The Nats executed four double plays yesterday, a fine day's effort, but the fact leaves a whole lot for the Washington pitchers to explain. That is, how come so many White Sox were on base?

This morning finds the Nats 7½ games ahead of the Athletics and 2½ games ahead of the Yanks, and not complaining about the strain of setting the pace.

And what has become of the efforts to obtain the 1932 Army-Navy game for Washington?

Burgoo King Shipped to Belmont

Starts in Preakness if Trials Show Colt in Top Shape.

Bradley Stormed by Friends; James Is $5,000 Richer.

By C. ROBERT KAY.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 8 (A.P.).—Burgoo King, Col. E. R. Bradley's third Derby winner, was shipped to Belmont Park today to engage in workouts before his owner decides whether he will send him to Maryland for the Preakness Saturday.

Mrs. L. G. Kauffmann's Tick On and J. J. Robinson's Lucky Tom were shipped to Pimlico and probably will start in the Preakness. J. H. Louchelm's Economic was shipped to Aqueduct. Mrs. John Hay Whitney's pair, Stepenfechit and Overtime, were sent to Belmont Park.

The Three D's Stable's Liberty Limited, which broke down in the Derby, probably is lost to racing for all time. The Northway Stable's Gallant Sir was kicked in the shoulder at the post, but not seriously hurt. It has not been decided whether he will run in the Preakness.

Futures of Some Undecided.

Future plans for Brandon Mint, Prince Hotspur and Cold Check, other Preakness eligibles, are undecided also. Brother Joe, Bradley's other entry, which went lame in the Derby, was taken back to Idle Hour Farm, with excellent chances of being saved for racing this fall.

There was jubilation in the blue grass region of Kentucky today, as friends from near and far gathered at Col. E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour Farm near Lexington to felicitate him on being the only turfman to win three Kentucky Derbies.

There was jubilation in Louisville, where one of the Falls City's native sons, Jockey Eugene James, received the acclaim due a former newsboy who piloted a Staunton thoroughbred to victory in the 1932 renewal of the historic $50,000 added stake.

There was loving care and kindness lavished on Burgoo King, the fine piece of horseflesh which made a show of the Derby field of nineteen other horses Saturday, as his handlers at Churchill Downs placed him on a train for the East in quest of further triumphs.

At the Idle Hour Farm Burgoo King's famed sire, Bubbling Over, who won the Kentucky Derby in 1926, was on display. He proudly reared his head, as if sensing he was now one of the two thoroughbreds in history who had both won the Derby and sired the winner of a derby. Only Halma, who won in 1895 and sired Alan-a-Dale, 1902 winner, shares Bubbling Over's record.

James $5,000 Richer.

Jockey James, $5,000 richer than he was 24 hours before, also left for the East, perhaps to ride Burgoo King in the Preakness at Pimlico Saturday. Col. Bradley had promised the 19-year-old former newsboy that amount if he would win the Derby, and Col. Bradley keeps his promises.

Burgoo King is named for a Lexington grocer who prepared the burgoo for a charity race meeting at Idle Hour Farm two years ago. James T.

Cubs Add to Lead In Beating Dodgers

Chicago, May 8 (A.P.).—Burleigh Grimes, making his first start for Chicago, was not a very good pitcher today, but the rest of the Cubs mistreated five Brooklyn hurlers to win the final game of the series, 12 to 5.

The victory gave the Cubs three out of four for the series, and increased their lead over Boston for first place to three and one-half games.

Burgoo King Romping to Victory in Derby Finish

Tilden Rallies to Defeat Kozeluh in 5-Set Match

WITH his broad straight back jammed hard against that proverbial wall which looms as part and parcel of every dramatic "comeback" story, Big Bill Tilden, the larruping old ghost of tennisdom, fought brilliantly back yesterday afternoon to beat Karel Kozeluh, 3—6, 3—6, 7—5, 6—3, 6—2 at Wardman Park Hotel before 1,000 witnesses.

For two and a half sets the man who remains the greatest attraction in the game, declined before Kozeluh's brilliant defensive tennis. Tilden threw everything he had at the Czechoslovakian, only to see it blocked and returned so adroitly that he was fortunate to rescue three games in each of the first two sets.

Kozeluh, with a 3-to-1 lead in the third set, and the crowd stirring restlessly, saw Tilden rise up in all his pristine glory to fight back on even terms. Driving, chopping, volleying and speeding about the courts with an alacrity that would have killed many men of his age, Tilden, by the very audacity of his stroking, punctured the tennis armor that faced him across the net and finished out the match with a bombardment such as tennis fans will remember for years.

Hans Nusslein, smoothly stroked his way over Roman Najuch, 7 to 5, in a preliminary singles, and Tilden and Kozeluh paired after their memorable five-set brawl to beat Nusslein and Najuch, 6 to 2.

Running after an acutely angled shot off Kozeluh's racquet in the third game of their first set, Tilden badly wrenched the tricky knee which long has been glorified in the public prints. He limped painfully for the duration of the set. Kozeluh never let up, driving Tilden from side to side and dropshotting him unmercifully, and he gained his reward when Tilden's brilliance began to fade in the long rallies which marked the early stages of the match.

Kozeluh swept through the second set against a Tilden whose knee seemed to have recovered once more, but who was powerless in the face of such inhuman steadiness as Kozeluh was exerting. Not only was Kozeluh returning every ball, but he mixed his shots with startling suddenness. He parried backcourt drives with Tilden, getting better depth and placement on the ball than Bill, and then would counter with an ungodly undercut ball that twice leaped back over the net after hitting in Tilden's court.

Wardman, Claremont Tennis Teams Triumph

Wardman took the lead in the Capital City League yesterday when it scored a 9-0 victory over the Filipino Club Team on the courts at Friends School.

Frank Shore won the feature match of the day when he downed Dean Judd, one of the ablest of District netmen, 1—6, 6—1, 6—4. Rushing net play brought each a set during the first two encounters, but Shore's backcourt steadiness won for him in the end. The rest of Wardman's wins were by decisive margins.

Claremont beat Pan-American in another league match. Lieut. Gerald Smith, Navy Leech Cup player, defeated Alan Staubly in the feature.

Bill Steiner Winner In Metropolitan Run

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—William Steiner, who finished fifth in the Boston Marathon, today won the Metropolitan Amateur Athletic Union Marathon title, finishing far ahead of Paul de Bruyn, New York German, who won the Boston grind. De Bruyn was about two-thirds of a mile from the finish line when Steiner crossed. He took second place.

Steiner's time for the 25 miles 385 yards was 2 hours 38 minutes and 56 4-5 seconds, more than 5 minutes slower than De Bruyn's time for the hilly Boston course.

Vines Beats Shields In Net Exhibition

Kansas City, May 8 (A.P.).—Ellsworth Vines, of Los Angeles, national singles tennis champion, defeated Frank X. Shields, 6—4, 5—7, 6—4, in an exhibition match with the United States Davis Cup squad here today.

Johnny Van Ryn took a decision, 6—4, 6—2, from Wilbur F. Coen, jr., of Kansas City, former member of the Davis Cup squad and protege of William T. Tilden. Coen is the playing coach of the University of Kansas tennis team.

The Davis Cuppers entrained later for New Orleans, where they meet the Mexican team in the final zone competition in the Western hemisphere this week-end.

FRENCH CHASE TO BRULETTE

Paris, May 8 (A.P.).—H. L. Birkin's Brulette won the featured Prix du Cadran, a 2½-mile jaunt for 4 and 5 year olds, at Longchamps today. Bruledur was second and Romarin, third.

Brulette won by two lengths, paid 4 to 1 in the betting and earned a major share of the purse of $8,000.

TRIBE BEATS MACKS BY 8 TO 5

Walberg Pounded as 21,000 See Game; Sewell Stars.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 8 (A.P.).—Philadelphia's usually trusty old jinx on the Cleveland Indians wasn't in working order today and the Tribe made fitting observance of the occasion by scalping the enemy, 8 to 5, before a near record crowd of 21,000 at League Park.

The victory gave the Indians an even break in the four game series and moved them up within a game of the second place New York Yankees, idle today because of rain.

The game was just another case of too much hitting on the part of the Indians, who drove Walberg to the showers in the fifth inning under a barrage of eleven hits, and then treated Bowman to four more, including a home run by Averill.

Cleveland thus has pounded out 33 hits off six Mack pitchers in the last two games.

Luke Sewell led the tribal onslaught by hitting four out of four for a perfect day at the plate. Averill hit his sixth homer in the seventh, but no one was on base.

Punt on Kick-Off Ruled Out by Gridiron Officials

Hanover, N. H., May 8 (A.P.).—The national football rules committee has revoked the rule allowing the punt as an alternate form of kick-off, it was announced today by E. K. Hall, of Dartmouth, chairman of the committee. As a result only the place or drop kick will be allowed for kicking off in games next fall.

It was stated that experiences in spring practice throughout the country showed the rule requiring five men on the defensive team to remain on their own 45-yard kick until the ball is kicked coupled with the use of their place or drop kick was enough to allow the kicking team to get down the field before heavy interference could form.

The original change in the code was made last winter in an effort to eliminate mass interference and the "flying wedge" in the kick-off. The change eliminating the punt was made in a mail vote of the rules committee.

A. A. U. Title Race Is Won By Agee

U. S. Champ Pressed by P. Mundy to Win by 10 Yards.

Dewhurts, D. C. Star, Is 4th; 56 of 66 Survive Grind.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

BILL AGEE, running under colors of the Stonewall Athletic Club, of Baltimore, led a field of 66 starters in the District A. A. U. championship 15-mile Marathon yesterday over a course from Mount Vernon to the Knights of Columbus clubhouse on Tenth street. Agee's time was 1 hour 24 minutes 21 3-5 seconds, which was only a second lower than the fastest 15 miles ever run here. The race was conducted by the Knights of Columbus, in conjunction with the District George Washington Bicentennial Committee.

Agee is the national A. A. U. champion for the distance, and he was called on to show just how he gained the title to win, as Paul Mundy, of the Meadowbrook Club, Philadelphia, ran shoulder to shoulder with the winner until the final 100 yards, when Agee drew away, to cross the finish line two seconds before Mundy.

The team trophy was won by the Meadowbrook Club, with 9 points; Stonewall Athletic Club was second, with 20; Baltimore Cross Country was third, with 22; Ramsey Collegians were fourth, with 24, and Knights of Columbus took fifth with 42. Fifty-six of the 66 starters finished.

Arthur Dewhurst, of the Y. M. C. A., was the first Washington runner to cross the finish line. Dewhurst finished in fourth position and his time was 1 hour 30 minutes and 54 seconds. Bus Nicholson, of the District of Columbia American Legion, was the next local finisher and his position was twenty-seventh.

Agee and Mundy's Lead From Start.

Weather conditions were ideal when Tom Mills cracked the starting gun that sent the harriers off. There was a little chill in the air and threatening clouds hid the sun for three-fourths of the race. Agee and Paul Mundy and Joe Mundy, brothers, jumped off in the lead at the start and before one-half mile had been traversed the pack was far behind.

When the 3-mile post was reached, Agee and the Mundy brothers were still running shoulder to shoulder, while the others trailed fully a quarter of a mile back. The leaders were clocked at this point in 17 minutes 57 2-5 seconds.

Coming toward the 5-mile point, the same three were still matching stride for stride, but just before reaching the mark Joe Mundy dropped out. He afterward stated that he had a "stitch" in his side from the start, but hoped he could work it off. At the 5-mile mark he was forced to give up. The time at this point was 29 minutes and 16 3-5 seconds.

Agee and Paul Mundy continued their almost monotonous pace mile after mile. At the 7-mile marker they passed together in the lapsed time of 40 minutes and 7 2-5 seconds. Still together at the 9-mile post, timers recorded 51 minutes and 21 3-5 seconds, and at 10 miles the two were timed at 57 minutes and 1 4-5 seconds.

Leaders Together Entering City.

At the 11-mile mark, if any of the vast throng that followed the race could note any difference in the two runners, it was only that Mundy had

Giants and Cardinals Divide Double-Header

St. Louis, May 8 (A.P.).—The New York Giants and the St. Louis Cardinals split a double-header here today, the Giants winning the first game, 4 to 1, and the Cardinals, behind the pitching of "Dizzy" Dean, taking the second, 6 to 5. Collins, for the Cardinals, hit his seventh home run of the season. Hubbell, who pitched the Giants to victory in the first game, got a three-base hit, while Dean slugged a couple of two-base hits in the second contest.

SCHWARTZ AND LANDERS TO CLASH TONIGHT AT PORTNER'S

Overlin and Smallwood On Card

Strickler Will Battle Fiemster in Other 8-Rounder.

Interest High as Van Seeks 7th Knock-out in Row.

By JACK ESPEY.

MATCHMAKER FRANKIE MANN has rounded up a likely looking bunch of scrappers for tonight's flatic entertainment in Portner's Arena, under auspices of the Alexandria Day Nursery Athletic Association. From end to end the card is a prospective thriller. Action commences at 8:30.

Benny Schwartz, of Baltimore, who has met the best flyweights and bantams in the world, including three world's champions, will be introduced to a local audience in one of the three eight-round bouts featuring the program.

Schwartz' opponent is the popular Billy Landers, of Norfolk, who, next to Reds Barry, local heavyweight, has drawn the biggest gates at nearby rings during the last nine months. This is Landers' last chance hereabouts, for he has lost his last two engagements, the victim of Midget Wolgast and Antol Kocsis. In Schwartz he will be meeting just as clever a boxer as Wolgast or Koosis, and once again his chances of winning rest almost solely on his ability to put over a kayo wallop.

Joe Smallwood Returns.

Joe Smallwood, a Washington boy who went away to make good—and did—returns in another of the eights to engage Ken Overlin, hard-punching Norfolk welterweight. Smallwood won the Delaware State welter crown about a month ago and has not been defeated since last July, when he dropped a decision to Harry "Kid" Groves at Fort Washington. Overlin, who impressed in a victory over Tony D'Alessandro several weeks back, is expected to furnish Joe plenty of trouble.

The third eight-rounder brings together Billy Strickler, Washington's iron-man light-heavyweight, and Bill Fiemster, lanky champion of North and South Carolina. Both pack kayo dynamite in their hands and will be shooting for a quick finish from the opening bell. Fiemster demonstrated strength in knocking out Billy Schwartz, of Alexandria, in the first round of his last appearance. The Tarheel lately has been belittling Strickler's ability in letters to friends here and the Capital battler, aware of the fact, has his dander up.

Interest High in Van Match.

Not the least attractive of the bouts by any means is the six-round main preliminary between Young Van, unbeaten Washington middleweight, and K. O. Burns, of Baltimore. Van will be seeking his seventh successive triumph, hoping also to administer the same knockout dose taken by his other six foes. Burns, however, looms by several degrees the best man Van has yet faced, so if the local youth keeps his record clean he will definitely ascend from the preliminary class.

Marino Marini, Italian southpaw lightweight, and Donald First, promising Baltimore boy, open the show in four rounds.

BOXING BITS' SELECTIONS—Schwartz to defeat Landers; Smallwood to shade Overlin; Strickler to check Fiemster; Van to outpoint Burns, and First to beat Marini.

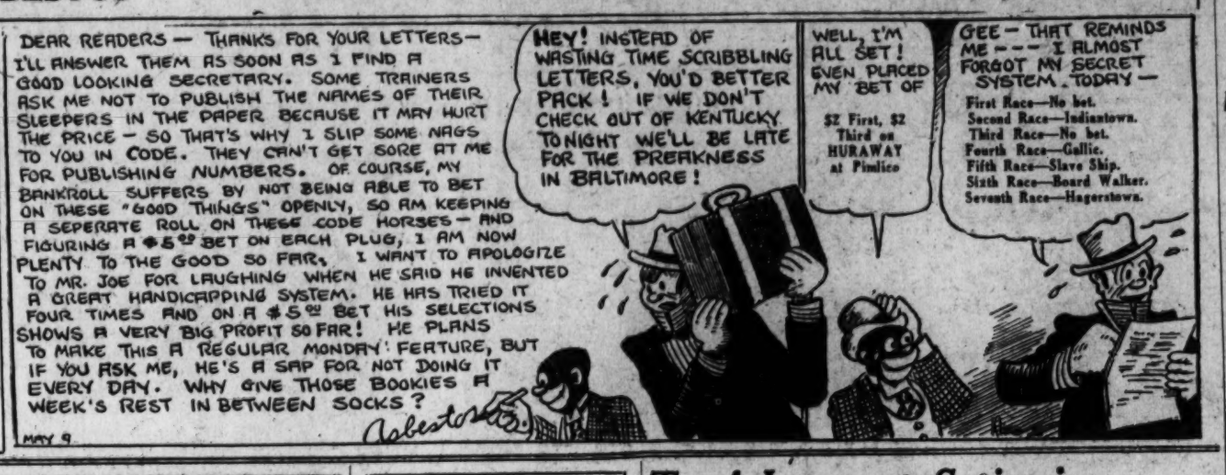
JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for Secret Code)

—By Ken Kling

The Jamaica code horse won Saturday at 11 to 5. Other code horse scratched, and while Asbestos lost 3 bucks on the Derby, making his roll $15.89, his code horses show profit of $34.50 on $5 flat play. Joe again tries his secret handicapping system. Today so far it shows a profit of $148.25 on a $5 play.

Today's code is Aurora, 8-5-13-15-2-16-17-14.



AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL, PIMLICO RACE TRACK.

Mr. (Brother Pete) Bostwick is still trying to make good as a flat race rider. More power to him. There is no question, Al, but what Mr. Bostwick is one of the Nation's leading chase jockeys and many of us $2 bettors have profited by playing his jumping mounts. He is a fearless rider and a gentleman. It is said that he donates his jockey fees to charity. But this year Mr. Bostwick has changed his tactics. He is trying to crash the flat. Horses like Colossal and Mate are bound to draw heavy backing and when they run out of the money and Mr. Bostwick is in the saddle, race players are inclined to place the blame on the rider. Some horsemen who saw him ride Mate were of the opinion that Mr. Bostwick puts his weight too far back on his mount, a habit formed by years of hunting. I'm suggesting, Al, that he do some experimenting but not in the afternoon. There's no uglier souvenir than a mutuel ticket. BILL.

FIRST RACE—I'm taking the Bosley entry of MUSKOGEE and HUON JOY in the jumping race. Both campaigned during the winter at Agua Caliente and MUSKOGEE won his last at this track. These horses lack a little of the class of SUN ECLIPSE who fell in his first outing of the season. EIDERBARD for the third end of the purse.

SECOND RACE—SERNABIT won so handily the other day that it is hard to pass her up despite the fact that a speedster of the type of INDIANTOWN must be defeated. Gilbert is likely to ride again.

The price will be nothing to write home about. INDIANTOWN has been second twice and a winner once in his three starts and is the one to beat. CHISEL, third the last time, should do as well in here.

THIRD RACE—HURAWAY has been knocking at the door ever since the start of the season. Has a third place complex, holding that position in his last five starts. However, I see him graduating among these. MISCALCULATE was played heavily to win that last and made a fine showing to take the place money. See this one second ahead of HIGH SOCKS, who has a chance off a race back a ways.

FOURTH RACE—Believe I have another Three X Special in PETURNAL, a colt under the wing of J. P. Jones. McTaggart will have the mount. This colt has worked better than that last and only race. Worth an across the board wager. Of course, PRECIOUS DOLLAR figures best and is bound to draw the heavy play. BRIGHT PATTERN has races that recommend him for third money.

FIFTH RACE—BARCELONA PETE staged a finish up at Havre de Grace which forced me to put him in the book for future reference. I'm letting him go today. Ran over horses in the stretch to finish a length and a half behind Ladfield, Vishnu and Indian Runner. True, that was a sprint but the route is BARCELONA PETE'S game as he proved at this track last fall. WAR HERO, also a fine stretch runner, has that brilliant showing in the Chesapeake to recommend him. SLAVE SHIP won his only start.

SIXTH RACE—From the crow's nest, it appeared to me that BROADWALKER was going to take the big end of that last purse. However, he went wide and his chances were shot. Today may find this one hugging the rail at the turn and it may be a different story. SCUTTLE looks the best on past performances. LAURA GAL can not be sidetracked entirely.

SEVENTH RACE—HAGERSTOWN seems to be in another promising spot. Won impressively at the Graw and should take these. ANUBIS' last was the well-known beaut. A repeater would be dangerous. CHARLIE K packs a lot of weight. I see him third.

Turf Interest Swinging To Saturday's Preakness

BALTIMORE, May 8 (A.P.).—With the fifty-eighth Kentucky Derby safely stowed away in the home stable of Col. E. R. Bradley, attention of the turf world has centered on the forty-second renewal of the historic Preakness at Pimlico next Saturday.

GOLF EVENTS AT SIX D. C. CLUBS

Field of 150 At Indian Spring

Three Tied for First Lucky Number at Argyle.

Metzner Wins Handicap Medal Event at Manor.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE importance of providing competition for members of golf clubs was demonstrated yesterday when no less than six clubs offered entertaining programs. On all of the courses where events were scheduled there was the largest attendance of the spring season, this being noticeably true at Indian Spring, where more than 150 players participated in a blind bogey contest.

At the Beaver Dam Club, where a mixed Scotch foursome was postponed owing to lack of handicap data, play began at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, when the first foursome teed off, and there was a constant procession around the links throughout the entire day.

Three Tied for First Lucky Number.

At the Argyle Club, where a selective handicap tournament was on the card, the winners were as follows:

First lucky number, 73—W. H. Flannery, 95—18—73; R. M. Johnston, 101—28—73; J. B. Harmon, 83—10—73. Second number, 71—W. F. Beasley, 86—15—71. Third number, 80—W. H. Allen, 99—19—80; J. T. Kirkpatrick, 100—20—80; A. C. Wight, 105—25—80; C. Harr, 99—19—80; Wilbur Taylor, 95—15—80; Dr. H. B. Parham, 100—20—80; J. B. Murray, 105—25—80. Fourth number, 75—F. W. LeDuc, 85—10—75; Ernest Kelly, 105—30—75; Griffith Bunker, 96—21—75; W. Arnold, 88—12—76; L. G. Johnston, 94—18—76; Melton Davis, 101—25—76; A. C. Wight, 99—22—76. Sixth number, 72—George W. Wood, 86—16—70; R. Sherwood, 91—17—72; Don Dudley, 81—9—72; William P. DiEste, 78—6—72.

A handicap tournament at the Manor Club, eighteen holes, medal play, resulted as follows: Men—C. A. Metzner, jr., 88—24—64; second, tie, M. H. Robb, 81—16—65, and R. P. Gibson, 85—20—65.

Mrs. D. M. McPherson won the women's tournament with a card of 92—24—68, one stroke better than Mrs. L. G. Pray, whose score was 88—16—69.

Howard Nordlinger, who has been a consistent winner in the weekly handicaps at the Woodmont Club, shared first honors yesterday with Jack Shulman. Entries to Be Received Today And Tomorrow.

More than 100 women golfers will compete this morning on the Kenwood course for the Star Cup, with eighteen holes today and a similar round tomorrow, medal play, with handicaps limited to eighteen strokes. Neither Mrs. Betty P. Meckley, the District woman champion, who is incapacitated with a sprained back, nor Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Middle Atlantic champion, who is ill with an attack of grip, will be able to play today.

Entries to Be Received Today And Tomorrow.

Entries will be received on the Kenwood course today and tomorrow by Mrs. F. R. Keefer, president of the Women's District Golf Association, for participation in the women's District championship, which begins next Monday on the course of the Manor Club. The entrance fee is $3 and early entrants will have an advantage in time of play. There will be flights for all who qualify, and pairings will be made on the basis of the scores.

There were four lucky numbers in the blind bogey handicap tournament on the Indian Spring course yesterday and with the largest field ever competing in a similar event, there were naturally numerous ties as follows:

First number, 80—S. P. Anderson, 107—27—80; W. H. Patterson, 95—15—80; H. Waldwell, 94—14—80; Mac Harris, 106—26—80. Second number, 71—J. W. Reese, 95—24—71; Leo F. Pass, 83—12—71; H. G. Phillips, 89—18—71; W. W. Teal, 94—23—71. Third number, 68—71. Third number, 73—J. H. Fense, 86—13—73. Fourth number, 78—J. A. Buete, 105—27—78; C. E. Sipes, 92—14—78; J. J. Cullihan, 99—21—78; M. C. Whitman, 88—10—78; W. Parks, 93—15—78; Dr. L. M. Smathers, 93—15—79.

In the tournament on the Kenwood course yesterday players were allowed to substitute five pars for any figures on their score cards. E. R. Hutchinson was winner with 77—20—57, while R. A. Lacey took second prize with 82—23—69, Harvey Johnson, with 75—12—63, was third.

Armless Golfer at Kenwood Today.

Thomas McAuliffe, of Buffalo, who plays golf without any arms, attracted a large gallery on the Kenwood course yesterday and will play an exhibition match at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon with A. L. Houghton, the club professional, against Walter R. McCallum and A. W. Howard, of the Washington club, the latter being the well-known one-armed golfer. McAuliffe, who holds his clubs between his shoulder and his neck, negotiated the first nine holes on the Kenwood course yesterday in 46, with six three-putt greens.

Mat Title Claimant Here As Outdoor Season Starts

OPEN air wrestling crashes into vogue at Bolling Field tomorrow night when Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn promotes the greatest line-up of grapple talent yet offered on the military reservation.

In the event of rain, however, the scene shifts from the outdoor arena directly in front of the armory into the inclosure itself.

Headlining the program, which starts at 8:30 o'clock, will be a finish match in which Henri DeGlane, claimant of the world's heavyweight championship, risks his Bowser title in a finish go against Lee Wycoff, polished and gentlemanly former St. Louis University athlete.

Scheduled to report here some time today, both principals are in top form for the grueling, thrill-packed mixing that seems likely to eventuate.

Ably supporting the top feature will be another wind-up in which Joe Malcewicz, ranked among the first five Bowserites and a sensation since 1915, engages 230-pound Jake Patterson, powerful and ambitious Syracuse University graduate. Thirty minute subjects involve Danny Winters and Bat O'Hare, August Benkert and Joe Cook and Louis Allaire and "Bull" Garnon.

Tickets are to remain on sale at Goldie Ahearn's until 5 p. m. tomorrow, ladies being assessed full price due to the expense of the card.

CELTICS WIN, 3-2, FROM AUTH'S

Brenner's Single in Ninth Is Decisive; Riley Box Star.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 8.—St. Mary's Celtics opened their 1932 campaign this afternoon by handing the Auth's Provision Co., of Washington, a 3-to-2 trimming in a hotly contested battle at Baggett's Park.

A sharp single to right field by Bussy Brenner, with Leon Riley on second base, gave the locals their winning marker in the ninth, after a two-run rally had been staged in the eighth to gain even footing with the invaders. One was down when Brenner delivered the winning smack.

Riley turned in a beautifully pitched game for the locals, but poor fielding in the pinches gave Auth's their two runs and also nullified his exhibition. Riley granted only six hits, three of the scratch variety, and fanned six.

Brenner, Cabell and Riley accounted for seven of the Celtics' hits, the former collecting three and Cabell and Riley contributing two apiece.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

IF GEORGE WASHINGTON CAME BACK.

WASHINGTON (quite confused)—Where am I?

Guide—You're back in the United States.

Washington (seeing nothing familiar to him)—Back where?

Guide—The United States—you know—the big baby kidnaping country.

Washington—Oh, that place owned by the racketeers?

Guide—That's it.

Washington (turning away)—Let's get out at once.

Guide—You ought to look it over, General.

Washington—I'd rather not see it as it is today, if you don't mind. Who's that fellow waving the flag so strenuously over there? He seems very strong for his country.

Guide—Oh, that fellow! He's one of the best known gangsters in the land.

Washington—What do you mean by gangster?

Guide—You won't understand it, George, but it's a fellow who makes a career of crime, specializes in defying the laws of the land and even puts murder on a business basis.

Washington—What's he doing at liberty? Can a man flout the laws of the United States and escape punishment?

Guide—It's practically impossible for him to get arrested.

• • • •

WASHINGTON—Who are all those men talking into the radio?

Guide (bored)—Oh, those are candidates for the Presidency. They're promising to balance the budget, solve the country's labor problems and give every man a job.

Washington (surprised)—My word! Haven't they attended to that yet?

Guide—They're declaring for the Forgotten Man now. You remember the Forgotten Man, George?

Washington—Yes; they were still promising to remember him back in my time.

• • • •

Washington (as they walk along) Look! What's going on across the street?

Guide—Just a common street scene in America. It's some minor official trying to dodge an indictment.

Washington—Isn't that a bit irregular?

Guide—Not today, sir. In these times a big man is known by the indictments he dodges.

Washington—Who are the big men of America today?

Guide—I couldn't give you all the names, but there's Al Capone, Nick the Greek, Huey Long, Amos Woodcock, Simeon Fess, Bossie Gillis, Jack Sharkey, King Levinsky, Amos 'n' Andy and • • • •

Washington—Never mind, I'm sorry I brought the subject up. Hark! What's all that wailing and moaning?

Guide—You mean that swelling chorus of groans and lamentations? They're Americans complaining about hard times.

Washington—But what makes it sound near one moment and far off the next?

Guide—The people complaining the loudest about hard times are traveling in automobiles.

Washington (with the memories of Valley Forge)—That settles it! I've seen all I wish. Let's go.

(They go.)

TO AN ERRATIC BOSS.

O sit and glare, and snort, and rare,
And whirl on domineering swivel—
Nor think 'tis for your grace I care—
I merely ask of you "be civil."

O puff your pudgy person out
And scatter ashes all about,
And whine and curse and wheeze, and pout—
In time you'll wear completely out!

O strut and fume in manly pride,
Nor condescend unto a woman—
But, darn your blooming yellow hide,
Your secretary's only human!

HEBE.

ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL.

THE defendants in the Massie case, sentenced to serve ten years, were freed after serving one hour. And had Clarence Darrow been his old self he would have had won them ten minutes off for good behavior.

"Did it seem long?" one can imagine asking one of the prisoners. And being told: "Oh, you have no idea! The years seemed like minutes!"

Egyptian Prince Renounces Titles.

Cairo, Egypt, May 8 (A.P.).—Prince Youssef Kamal, a cousin of King Fuad and one of the richest of the Egyptian princes, has renounced his titles and issued instructions to his estates that he is henceforth to be known only as Youssef Kamal. No reason has been given for the action, which caused a sensation here.

CURB SALES REVEAL STRONG UNDERTONE

Market Rallies at Close of Week; With Oils Leading Revival.

New York, May 8 (A.P.)—Recent curb market sessions have revealed a steady undertone for most trading favorites, even in the face of conspicuous weak spots among an assortment of more or less volatile issues. Heaviness last leek was confined to the first two or three days and the market enjoyed a good rally on Friday when it appeared that real progress had been made toward a balancing of the Federal budget. Even before that session, however, liquidation of many leaders had diminished and their fluctuations became narrow.

Oils gave the best group performance, showing rather consistent firmness. They were aided by the progress being made toward curtailment of output and by a reduction in gasoline stocks, together with further stiffening of prices for refined products and more favorable first quarter earnings statements.

Preferred stocks, especially those of utility holding companies, displayed their familiar thinness. Some heaviness persisted among common issues early in the week when Electric Bond & Share dipped to 11¼ and Commonwealth Edison sold at 67. St. Regis Paper was affected by its report of smaller income. However, much if not all of the ground lost was retraced.

A feature of the week was selling in Swift issues which followed the Supreme Court decision against modification of the packers' consent decree. Officials of both companies announced that the financial positions of their corporations were strong, but heavy liquidation appears in each. Singer Manufacturing was a weak specialty, breaking below 100. Quaker Oats dropped 18 points on one sale. Aluminum of America also sagged.

Cities Service common encountered considerable pressure and established a new low before recovery. The "BB" preferred also weakened.

Some investment trusts were affected by recent declines in market values of their holdings. United Founders sagged to the new low of ¼.

Press Club Plans Barbecue May 21

Officials of Capital and Nearby States Invited to Jamboree.

More than 2,000 persons are expected to attend a Texas barbecue to be staged by the National Press Club at Seaside Park, Chesapeake Beach, Md., on Saturday afternoon, May 21.

All club members have been asked to attend, and invitations have been sent to the Vice President, members of the President's cabinet, members of the House of Representatives and the Senate and other high Government officials. Governors of nearby states have been invited to participate.

Thirty Hereford beeves, to be brought here from ranches near Amarillo, Tex., will be used in the barbecue. John Snider, famous stager of barbecues, will be in charge, assisted by a crew of experts from Texas. Entertainment will include band music, boxing, wrestling, swimming and other outdoor sports.

'Genuine' Security Back Of Kreuger & Toll 5s

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—The protective committee for holders of Kreuger & Toll 5 per cent secured sinking fund gold debentures has learned that securities held in Sweden as collateral against those bonds "appear to be genuine" and that they conform with the records of the American trustee.

Swedish counsel has advised that the collateral is "so held as to be free from any levy or attachment which might be asserted against them prior to the charge created by the indenture in favor of the secured debentures." This information was conveyed to the debenture owners in a letter sent by the committee today.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—Interest in next week's dividend meetings centers on those of the New York Central and Union Pacific railroads. Wall street entertains no real hope of any disbursement by the Central, in view of the fact that the system's earnings have become worse rather than better since the board last fall voted to defer action on the dividend until the May meeting. What course the Union Pacific directors will take, is a matter for speculation, but general opinion is that the rate will be lowered from the $10, which has been distributed regularly since 1918.

Unfavorable dividend changes last week dropped sharply from those of the preceding week, numbering 45 against 68, according to the Standard Statistics Co. Favorable changes totaled 9, compared with 3 in the week before.

Brown Bros., Harriman & Co. and Yarnall & Co. have been awarded a new issue of $150,000 Northumberland County, Pa., 4½ per cent bonds, issued for highway improvements, and are offering the bonds at prices to yield 4.35 per cent.

The average yield of sixteen leading bank stocks as of May 6 was 9.07 per cent, compared with 8.93 per cent on April 30 and 9.84 per cent on December 17, the highest average yield reported last year, according to Holt, Rose & Troster.

Women to Protest Release of Married

Party Names Committee to Show Congress Project Is Discriminatory.

Opposition to the movement in Congress to release married persons from government positions if it is necessary to the economy program, was expressed yesterday by members of the National Woman's Party at an open meeting at the club house, 144 B street northeast.

A voluntary committee was formed to draw up facts to show that the bill would probably discriminate against women and this committee will present these facts before Congress. The committee will ask that, if the bill cannot be defeated, Congress should not dismiss employes from their positions, but place the released ones on furlough so they would not lose their seniority rights.

It was asserted at the meeting yesterday that if the bill is passed it will keep many couples from marrying, or if they do marry they will conceal the fact.

BONDS COVER SLUMP WITH WEEKEND RISE

Federal Loans Join Gains on Reserve Bank Buying; Others Trail.

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—After descending to new depths for 1932 on three consecutive days of the past week, the bond market turned around and reached for upper levels.

The attempt at recovery, except in some of the speculative rail and utility issues, was not of the buoyant type, and any number of securities showed considerable hesitancy in joining the revival. The majority, however, raised their prices sufficiently to bring up the averages substantially.

United States Government obligations, at one time, gave up some of their recent gains, but when it was discovered that the Federal Reserve System was still buying heavily, this group snapped back sharply and held around the highest prices of the year. Federals purchased by the Reserve Banks during the week amounted to around $96,000,000.

Corporate groups, which have paid little attention to the Government department in previous sessions, for a change decided to trail along. At the same time these categories were somewhat encouraged by developments at Washington. President Hoover's messages demanding a speedy and nonpartisan balancing of the budget were well received, as was the side-tracking of the veterans' bonus measure.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

DESPITE her 570 pounds, Florence, the lighter of the world's heaviest twins, has a handwriting as fine and delicate as that of a 90-pound maiden. In a very interesting note to the writer, she lists the following weights, which clearly show that the twins come by their heftiness quite naturally: Their mother, now 67 years of age, weighs 321 pounds, and their father, now deceased, weighed 275. A sister, Lillian, aged 36, tips the scales at 250 pounds, and another sister, Anna, age 31, weighs 225. The "baby" of the family is Albert, age 34, who weighs only 198. Florence and Dorothy, the twins, differ in their weights by only 6 pounds, Florence weighing 570 pounds and Dorothy 576. Altogether, this heavyweight family of seven weighed over a ton—2,415 pounds.

Harold Cohick reports that on August 24, 1931, Al Cline, while pitching for Salladasburg, Pa., against Ranchtown, struck out SEVEN men in one inning. The catcher dropped the third strike on four occasions, allowing the batter to reach first base.

BEAUTIFUL—

DECLINE IN NATION'S MORALS HELD CAUSE OF ECONOMIC SLUMP

Bishop Freeman Denounces Partisanism at Rotary Conference.

TROUBLE DUE LARGELY TO SIN, HE DECLARES

Makes Plea for Courage and Service to Restore Business as Usual.

A distinct moral decline lies at the root of the whole situation confronting America today, and we will not emerge until something approximating a great reformation besets this Nation, the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, told delegates to the thirty-fourth District Rotary Conference at the Church of the Epiphany last night.

Bishop Freeman, who was the preacher at a special Rotary service on the eve of the opening of the conference, said "there has been such an immoral tone in all phases of American life in recent years that a calamity was logical." Illustrative of this, he spoke vehemently of "the orgy of speculation."

The Episcopal bishop made a plea for "alertness, coupled with moral worth and men of character." He said a man who stands for partisanism at this time "commits treason against the state."

"Times Out of Joint."

"The times are out of joint," Bishop Freeman asserted, "and we must clean up. It is necessary that we be alert, ready, responsible and cultivate every day, through contact with the Divine, those elements that make for quiet, peace and security. You will not remedy the situation by restoring business as usual, but rather by changing the morals of our time and bringing back the elements of courage and service."

Bishop Freeman said he had been "surprised by the fatuous efforts of business groups" to bring about adjustment through thought only of the price of commodities, stocks and bonds and other practical matters.

"When we are sober and reflective," he said, "we will see that much of our sorrow is due to our own sin. We have failed to reckon with our sins and vices in the United States."

Bishop Freeman referred to the appeal of President Hoover to Congress and the Nation to avert further economic disaster, and speaking further of the President, without mentioning him by name, declared he is "virtually interested in the moral worth of the man and in his sincere desire to serve."

Conduct Rotary Service.

The Rotary service was conducted by the Rev. ZeBarney T. Phillips, D. D., rector of Epiphany Church. He was assisted by the Rev. Charles T. Warner, a member of the Washington Rotary Club.

After the service, an informal reception and concert was held in the small ballroom of the Willard. Miss Helen Howison, Edwin C. Steffe and Charles Wilfred Smith were the soloists. They were accompanied by George H. Wilson, a member of the Washington Rotary Club; Durward Bowersox, violinist; Katherine Riggs, harpist, and Elizabeth Winston, pianist.

Delegates to the conference, which opens at 9:30 o'clock this morning in the Gridiron room of the Willard, registered yesterday and an attendance of more than 700 is expected.

Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer and S. Percy Thompson, president of the Washington Rotary Club, will deliver addresses of welcome. Richard Wagner, president of the Rotary Club of Elizabethtown, Pa., will respond. The report of the District governor, Paul E. Titsworth, of the Chesterfown, Md., Rotary Club, is expected to be a feature of the opening session. The conference will continue through Wednesday.

BICENTENNIAL MUSIC FETE OPENS TONIGHT

Week of Concerts Starts With Schumann-Heink and Harmonica Band.

The District Bicentennial music week will start tonight with a concert in Constitution Hall by the Philadelphia Harmonica Band and Mme. Schumann-Heink. Programs will be presented every night this week except Saturday, under the auspices of the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission.

The Paulist Choristers, of New York, will give a concert tomorrow night. This will be the first visit of the choristers to Washington in nine years. Mme. Claudel, wife of the French Ambassador, is the patroness, and box holders will include members of the Diplomatic Corps, Government officials and social leaders.

The attraction Wednesday night will be the cantata, "Washington," presented by a massed chorus, assisted by the United States Marine Band. The cantata was written especially for the Bicentenial by Edward C. Potter and R. Deane Shure. The chorus was organized by Mrs. Gertrude Lyons.

Walter Johnson Picks King Of Dog Show at Auditorium

Col. Frank Webb Assists in Selection of Nancolleth Markable, Famous English Pointer, as Champion at Finish of Successful Exhibition.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

Walter Johnson walked out into the middle of a circusy looking ring at the Washington Auditorium last night, just as he used to walk out on the mound at his boss' ball yard, and pinned a blue ribbon on the left flank of a dog named Nancolleth Markable, which stood with tail extended and eyes fixed on some imaginative pheasant.

And, with one long howl of anguish, the Bicentennial Dog Show, under the auspices of the National Capital Kennel Club, came to a successful close. Assisting Mr. Johnson in the awarding of the blue ribbon of "king of the show" to Nancolleth was Col. Frank Webb, presidential candidate on the Farmer-Laborite ticket.

It was the third appearance in this country of the famous 2-year-old pointer, which is rated the best bench and field dog in England. Expertly handled by one McClure Hally, the dog, which is owned by Mrs. Giralda Dodge, of Madison, N. J., brought forth actual football game cheering from the gallery, as it ambled, loped and pointed all over the ring. It won the same titles at New York and Cincinnati.

Second Prize Awarded.

Second place—I forget what color the ribbon is—was awarded to Champion Fionne V. Loheland, of Walnut Hall, known to its intimates as "Mutt." Champion Fionne and so and so is a huge Great Dane, and was handled by Ben Lewis, who has won more championships than any showman in the country. It is owned by Harkness Edwards, of Lexington, Ky. Third place was copped by Creek Ridge Jolly Boy, a beagle.

Competition for the "King of the Show" lay among six dogs, all of them winners of their various general classes. They were, besides the three dogs mentioned, Heather Reveller of Sporran, a Scottish terrier, owned by S. S. Van Dine; Champion Whitworth Michael, a Peke owned by Mrs. Richardson Strathy, and Maple Spring Boddie Boy.

Late last night the work of crating the priceless pooches and shipping them to another show was completed. By dog show ratings it was a very successful meet, with 583 entrants, including several foreign importations.

Washington Post Trophy.

The Washington Post Trophy, offered for the best terrier in the show, went to Van Dine's bandy legged entry. There were numerous other prizes, ranging from handsome silver plate to satiny yellow ribbons. No one seemed to have the presence of mind to put up a good bone.

Results of earlier trials:

Pinschers—Baron von Claus, Ruth McCord.

English Setters—Tyn Y Gorse Phantom of Happy Valley, Happy Valley Kennels.

French Bull—Francois Villon of Berbay, Berbay Kennels.

Bull Terrier—John Rosanne D. Bennett.

REV. R. Y. NICHOLSON EULOGIZES MOTHERS

Says Word Not Applicable to All Women; Love Is Held Necessary.

"The ends of the earth are joining hands with us today in the honoring of mother," said the Rev. R. Y. Nicholson, speaking yesterday at the Rhode Island Avenue Methodist Protestant Church.

"Wherever men are big enough and manly enough to appreciate mother, they are honoring her," Mr. Nicholson continued.

"The idea of giving over one day of the year in honor of mother was born in the mind and heart of one American woman, but the thought was so beautiful and so divine it could not be confined to one person, so it moved out to the cities, towns, villages and country sides of the Nation. The idea of mother having one day was born in America, but like all of America's great gifts to mankind, it was given to the world, and today the man of the frozen North, of the torrid South, the far-flung West, and where the dawn comes out of the East, are today praying God's blessing upon mother.

Has Many Vocations.

"Woman is addressed by many different names. She may be addressed as doctor, lawyer, minister, as teacher, nurse, business woman. She may be spoken of as wife, housekeeper, homemaker. As great as any one of these may be, there is one greater than them all, namely, mother. The greatest name by which a woman can be addressed is that of mother. For woman M. A. should stand for ma. And if it must be garnished, it should stand for mother adorable.

"There are many wonderful words in the English language. The greatest word in the world is God; the deepest is soul; the longest, eternity; the swiftest, time; the tenderest, love; the warmest, home; the most beautiful, mother.

"This beautiful word is not applicable to all women who give birth to children. Not the name for women who bear children and allow them simply to grow up. Many a child lives in the house with the woman who gave it birth, taking food from the hands of the woman whom it calls mother, but that child has no real mother. Mother is the woman who bears children out of heart of love; who rears them with hands of love; who fashions their destiny with a heart of love. It is love that makes a mother and there is no substitute.

World's Bravest Souls.

"Real mothers are the world's bravest souls. They suffer long and are kind. They seek not their own; not easily provoked; think no evil. They bear all things; hope all things; endure all things. They never fail.

"Real mothers find their very life in their children. To them a family is not a burden, but a blessing. Not a weight to hold them down, but wings by which they are lifted up. They do not make life a desert, but an oasis."

CHRISTIANS SHOULD PAY MOTHERS HONOR DAILY, PASTOR SAYS

Rev. Gerhard E. Lenski Holds One Day Inadequate as Reminder of Duty.

SCORES CONCEIT FOUND IN MANY U. S. HOMES

Claims More Old Folks Are Being Forced Into Care of Public Institutions.

"After 2,000 years of Christianity it would hardly seem necessary for Christian people to have to resort to such a thing as Mother's Day in order to remind men of what their duty toward their mothers is," declared the Rev. Gerhard E. Lenski, preaching yesterday morning at the Grace Lutheran Church.

"Yet, it would seem there never was a time when such an arrangement was more in order," Dr. Lenski went on.

"Many of life's best gifts we incline to take for granted just as though we had earned or deserved them. We speak of our country as though we were doing it a favor to live in it. We act as though the church might always need us but as though we would never need the church.

Grandmother Brown.

"The same conceit has crept into our home. We condescendingly admire Grandmother Brown with her flock of little ones, but we see to it that families like hers are not our own. In such a day the worth of a true mother needs to be reappraised lest some of us be found despising the goodness that first gave us life and being.

"The matron of one of our best institutions of mercy commenting on her annual report recently said, 'The great social tragedy of our day is not poverty or unemployment, but it is old age. More and more old people are shunted out of the home and their care loaded on institutions. Their children are too busy to help. Even in cases of extremity there is a singular unwillingness to cooperate.'

Sounds Incomprehensible.

"This sort of thing, within the shadows of cathedrals and churches, sounds incomprehensible. Yet it is true in many instances. More than we like to admit, the people of this swift age need Mother's Day lest selfishness destroy their souls," Dr. Lenski said.

"Mother's Day is needed in order that the home may be preserved. Once family life in this country was predominately rural. The whole family had to work together in order to maintain itself. Today family life is dominated by city influences. The interests of the members of the family are widely divergent and mostly without the home. In the average household there is little cooperative effort, few pleasures in common. There is one way to save such a home. Let a motherly mother be placed in its center. If any power will keep that home from flying in all directions it will be hers.

Morality and Character.

"Religion can not be taught, it must be caught. Here the true mother is indispensable. She, better than all other teachers combined, can write on the heart of her growing child those truths that mean morality and character in after years."

Dr. Lenski concluded his sermon with an appeal to the young people of his congregation.

"Young woman, I plead with you not to be conformed to the foolish vices of this world, but to live true to those Christian ideals which have set Christian mothers apart as a blessing to all the world.

"Young man, some day you will want a home of your own. Choose well the companion who shall share its responsibilities with you. See that in her heart there is a Christian spirit. Let this spirit have free course, and, come what may, your home will be happy," Dr. Lenski concluded.

LAUDS HOME

DR. SIMPSON B. DAUGHERTY.

PASTOR CALLS HOME GREAT WORLD BASIS

Dr. Daugherty Says Fireside Is Maker of Both Nation and Church.

"The fundamental institution in the world today is not the nation, nor the church, but it is the home," said Dr. Simpson B. Daugherty, preaching yesterday morning at the United Brethren Memorial Church.

"The home is the maker of the nation," Dr. Daugherty said, "and the home is the maker of the church. America must come back to the Christian home. That constitutes the greatest task of motherhood."

The text of the sermon was taken from the eighth verse of the fourth chapter of the Second Book of Kings, "And it fell on a day that Elisha passed to Shunem, where there was a great woman."

Referring to his text, Dr. Daugherty said, in part:

"Elisha and his assistant pastor are weary with the long journey of the day. As the sun tints the western hills, the tint of gold, he stops to pass his greeting to some home where there lives a family that he knows, and they say to him, 'Elisha, the day is far spent. Would it not be advisable for you to come in and spend the night with us?' 'No,' says Elisha, 'I shall pass on down the dusty road to Shunem, where there is a great woman, who has always given me a home.' 'But that's quite a distance,' said he to Elisha. 'But I shall go on even though the darkness shall come, because that place is home. It is the home of a great woman.'

Definitions of Greatness.

"And why was this woman called great? I have read in history about a man whom the world called great, who utilized his energies in conquering and murdering men. His name was Alexander the Great. The Bible is the Word of God, and when you hear the Bible calling this woman great, you can know that she was a great woman.

"Did her greatness lie in her physical charm? I do not know that she had any attractiveness or beauty. Cleopatra was beautiful, but you could hardly call her great. How many folks think that when they have climbed the social ladder they have everything, but reach that place only to find that the gold they sought has turned to poison. Lady Hamilton was a social success, but you certainly would not call her great.

"And then, I do not know that this woman of Shunem was called great because of her intellectual brilliance. I do think that she had intellectual qualifications far beyond that which we may conceive, but she was not called great simply because of her intellectual brilliancy. But she was called great because she was great of soul, she had a great ambition, she had a great purpose in life.

Home Her Only Ambition.

"What was that ambition? It was to build a home. There was one overmastering passion that took possession of her, and that was to be a home-builder. That is her ambition, her purpose, her joy.

"She was married, but her husband was not an outstanding man. And yet, when Elisha went to her and said, 'Shall I speak to the king in your behalf?' she says 'No, I don't want to do that, I want to carry out the ambition of my life. I want to remain with my people to build a home for my husband, and do my share in bringing him to realize the possibilities of his own life under the touch of a motherly soul.'

"That was a fine ambition, wasn't it, and she had a splendid way of carrying out that purpose.

"How many houses there are that are houses only, not homes. Folks do not live in them; they just go in and out, using it for a place in which to change their clothes, to sleep and possibly to eat. But this woman lived at home. And you remember the poet who says, 'It takes a heap o' livin' in a house to make it home.' She lived in such a home."

BILL TO MERGE CAR LINES COMES UP IN HOUSE AGAIN TODAY

Chairman Mary T. Norton, of District Committee, Predicts Passage.

BLANTON WILL RESUME HIS FIGHT ON MEASURE

Several Other Proposals Affecting Washington to Get Early Action.

Chairman Mary T. Norton of the House District committee will make another effort this afternoon to push the traction merger through the House of Representatives, as District legislation again gets right of way on the House calendar.

Ten other local bills, approved by the House District committee, will be called up following action on the consolidation. These include the Bowman bill for regulation of security sales in the District, and the child labor law amendment permitting minors to appear on the professional stage at night.

Blanton to Lead Fight.

Continuation of the controversy attending reading of the merger bill last "District day" is looked for this afternoon with Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, leading the opposition. It was Representative Blanton's point of no quorum which forced adjournment.

Meanwhile, in the Senate, Senator Austin (Republican), Vermont, is awaiting recognition to explain the Senate District committee's majority report favoring a merger on less liberal terms than the House bill. Opposing extension of power contracts under the bill, Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas, and Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, will follow him with the minority viewpoint, opposing merger without a universal transfer grant, full Public Utilities Commission power regulation and a new valuation set-up.

Passage Is Predicted.

Representative Norton and Representative Loring M. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York, chairman of the District utilities subcommittee, will lead the fight for a merger at today's House session. Chairman Norton predicts passage of the bill.

Other measures to be called up following House merger action would permit the Acacia Life Insurance Association to change its name and broaden its field of activities; regulate the plumbing trade in the District; authorize the Gulf Refining Co. to run petroleum pipes into its factory; create a board of indeterminate sentence and parole for the District, and exempt from taxation District property of the Sons of the American Revolution, the Colonial Dames of America and the Daughters of 1812.

Cathedral Lauded By Retired Bishop

New England Churchman Commends Work of First Leader.

Henry Yates Satterlee, first Bishop of Washington, under whom the Cathedral ideal received its first impetus and said that Washington Cathedral is destined to play a great part in the religious life of the nation.

Bishop Lawrence took Christian courtesy as the theme of his sermon. He said that the seeds of divorce were often sown in the lack of courtesy between married people and in the home.

The Bishop recalled that his first visit to Washington was about 70 years ago when he came here to attend the second inauguration of President Lincoln.

Vicar Says England Less Depressed Than America

Canon W. T. Elliott, of Leeds, Delegate to Rotary Conference, Praises Washington as Dignified City; Most Impressed by Lincoln Memorial.

Canon William Thompson Elliott, Vicar of Leeds, England, who has come farther than any other delegate to attend the thirty-fourth District Rotary International Conference, paused for a few moments in a reception room off Peacock Alley in the Willard yesterday afternoon to voice his praises of Washington, which he had just seen for the first time.

"Washington," he declared, "gives one a great idea of the dignity and character of the American people. This is my fifth visit to the United States, and I regret that I failed to see Washington before."

Canon Elliott appeared to be most impressed by the Lincoln Memorial, which he described as "magnificent."

He expressed belief that the United States is a little more depressed than England, and attributed the feeling of confidence in business in his own country to political unity and wholehearted cooperation on the part of the English people.

The English feel that war debts and reparations should not be treated separately, and they have a stronge desire for collateral disarmament, he said.

Canon Elliott will be one of the principal speakers at the opening session of the conference this morning. He will speak on "The Individual Loyalties of a Rotarian."

Boy, 13, on Aerial Perch Seeing Game, Hurt by Fall

Allen, whose father is assistant plant superintendant of the Standard Oil Co., was carried by a friend to the curb, where they hailed Arthur Newcomb, of 3125 Nichols avenue, a passing motorist, who took the boy to Allen's home at 3411 Brothers place southeast.

Given first aid treatment by a nearby physician, the boy was taken to Providence Hospital by the Fire Rescue Squad ambulance. His injuries are said to be not serious.

Youth Still Missing After Death of Mother in Crash

The search for Allan Gruver, 19 years old, who wandered into the woods of Fairfax County after his mother had been killed in an accident on the Little River turnpike, entered its fourth day today, with a detachment of 30 District firemen, under Lieut. Charles L. Byram, joining the quest.

Since last Thursday, when the youth disappeared from the scene of the accident which took the life of his mother, a seraching posse, composed of Boy Scouts, police, firemen and friends, have combed the woods for a trace of him.

Two Hyattaville youths, friends of Gruver, who early yesterday set out to search along the banks of Duffican Run, in the vicinity of Great Falls, had not been heard from late last night. Their names are unknown to police. If they are not heard from early today a posse will be organized to look for them.

Gruver, who lived in Hyattaville, is thought to have received a head injury or was dazed with shock after the accident, and entered the woods and may have collapsed.
